Buckalew's Treason

Proof of His Correspondence with the Rebel Authorities.

Scheme to Resist the Raising of Troops in the North.

Others, Now Active Greeley Men, in the Plot.

Active Search for Mr. Buckalew's Letters.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

PHILADELPHIA, August 9, 1872.

The following dispatch has been received in this city:

WASHINGTON, August 9.—In the examination of the rebel archives, now in the possession of the government, several documents have been found which establish beyond all doubt that ex-Senator Buckalew, of Pennsylvania, was in correspondence with the rebel authorities during the rebellion, with a view to organize a determined resistance to further drafts in the North for men to help to crush out the rebellion. Mr. Buckalew seems to have been engaged in the plot, together with other prominent northern Democrats, now active Greeley men, to help the Confederate cause by preventing President Lincoln from raising the troops desired. Several documents refer to certain letters received by the Confederate authorities from Mr. Buckalew in relation to this scheme, and active search is now being made among the archives for those letters, and it is believed they will be found.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 9, 1872.

The rebel archives now in possession of the government are revealing the true record of several prominent Northern Democrats, such as Buckalew, Hendricks and Pendleton, during the late civil war. Documents have been found which show that there was collusion between these men and the Confederate government to incite open resistance to the draft law, and to embarass the United States government as much as possible in raising troops to suppress the rebellion. Several letters among the archives speak of ex-Senator Buckalew as a leader in the movement, and as doing all he could to aid the Confederate cause by secretly advising the Democrats in various parts of Pennsylvania to oppose the draft by forcible means. A memoranda among the papers refers to certain letters written by Buckalew, Hendricks and others to the Confederate authorities, and thorough search is now being made to find these original letters.

Chief Justice Keogh Removed—Royal Yacht Regatta.

LONDON, August 9.—The House of Commons, last night, resumed the debate on the motion of Mr. Butt for the removal of Justice Keogh, for his decision in the Galway election case, unseating Captain Nolan on the ground of undue influence in his election by the priesthood. The most prominent Irish members strongly denounced Keogh, which was approved by the government. The debate was very excited, and did not conclude until four o'clock this morning, when a division of the House was taken and the government was sustained by one hundred majority.

The Royal yacht squadron regatta, which commenced on the 5th inst., will terminate to-morrow. The match for the challenge cup, a gift from the Prince of Wales, is to be sailed for to-day. The American yacht Sappho is entered for this race, but there is some doubt expressed as to her starting.

GREENSBURG, PA., August 9, 1872.

The Greensburg Grant club visited Latrobe last evening, and there took part in the organization of a Latrobe Grant club. Several stirring speeches were made. The Westmoreland Republicans are awake to their interests and are well organized. B.

The Senatorial Conferees of Beaver, Butler and Washington counties reassembled at the Monongahela House, Pittsburgh, on Friday. The Butler conferees withdrew the name of their candidate, Allen Wilson, and Mr. Rutan, of Beaver, was nominated on the first ballot, receiving six votes, against three for J. N. McDonald. Mr. Rutan was introduced and thanked the conference. He promised to labor until the election was over for the whole ticket, predicted the election of the National, State and district tickets, and that each county in the Senatorial district would give a handsome majority. Messrs. McDonald and Kuhn were also introduced to the conference, and cordially ratified the nomination.

The Republicans of the Twenty-seventh Senatorial district—Clarion, Armstrong, Jefferson and Forest—met in convention on the 6th instant and nominated David McClay, of Clarion county, for State Senate, and George. Probably Fatal Affray—Politics the Cause.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

UNION, CITY, IND., August 9, 1872.

A serious and perhaps fatal stabbing affray occurred here last night about eleven o'clock, between two young men named Styles and Saxon. The former cheered for Grant, and the latter, with several companions, cheered for Greeley. Saxon and his party declared they would whip Styles, who told them he did not want to fight, and desired to go home, when they crowded on him and knocked him down. Styles got up and stabbed young Saxon under the left arm above the heart and cut another in the leg. Saxon is considered dangerously injured and will hardly recover. Styles escaped and has not been seen since.

Return of the Presidential Party.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., August 9.—President Grant and party reached here this morning. The village authorities and a large concourse of people met them out of the village and escorted them to the Rockwell House, where Colonel Cunningham made a brief address of welcome, to which the President replied. A salute of one hundred guns was fired and the principal buildings were decorated with flags. The village bells were rung and the streets thronged with people. All parties joined in the ovation. The President and Gen. Sheridan received the citizens for more than an hour in the parlor of the hotel, while Mrs. Grant received the ladies in the reception room. After dinner the party were escorted to the depot. They took the steamer at Albany to-night for New York.

SARATOGA, August 9.—The President and party reached here at half-past three this afternoon, and were received by a committee of citizens. The President and Gen. Sheridan held an informal reception at the Congress Hotel. The parlors and the piazzas were crowded, and over three thousand persons shook hands with them. Mrs. Grant was too much fatigued to appear. The party started south on the 6:30 train.

ALBANY, August 9.—President Grant reached here from Saratoga about 8:30 this evening. He was met by a large concourse of citizens, who welcomed him to the city with hearty cheers. A procession was then formed, which, preceded by a band of music, escorted him to the New York boat. On reaching the steamboat landing a considerable number of citizens were found there awaiting him. Here the President met with an enthusiastic reception. After he had got on board the boat he was called for so loudly and persistently that he came forward to the guards of the upper deck and briefly returned thanks for his reception. At Cohoes 10,000 people greeted him.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Hon. B. F. Wade, of Ohio, has taken the stump for Grant and Wilson, and is emphatic in the declaration that the Democratic party of to-day, notwithstanding its platform, is the same old Democratic party. A few thousand Liberals may have changed, but the three million Democrats remain the same. He thinks amnesty has gone far enough, all the rebels having been pardoned except those perjured traitors who, after having sworn allegiance to the United States, took a counter oath of fidelity to the Confederacy. Greeley's election would be a Democratic triumph. The copperheads already boasted that they "had a ring in his nose," and expected the Liberals to help steer him by his tail. If elected by Democrats, he would justly be controlled by Democrats. He said he had been a friend of Greeley for a great many years, but his recent conduct was the most unaccountable he had ever known. He could not account for it on any principle of honesty whatever. Greeley had, Judas-like, betrayed his party for the sake of a Presidential nomination. Mr. Wade spoke in the highest terms of Gen. Grant, and said there had been the most villainous attempts to break him down ever resorted to against any public man that ever lived. He explained Sumner's defection, and avowed Grant's administration as the most honest and economical since the Republican party came into power.

The Washington Republican is permitted to copy the following from a letter received by one of the largest merchants of that city from a prominent man who never yet voted a Republican ticket: "My opinion is strengthened that Grant must succeed. I have conversed with such men as Commodore Vanderbilt, and others of like commercial standing, and they are all horrified at the certain panic which must ensue if Greeley should be elected. One very wealthy and influential Pennsylvanian said that the moment his watchfulness discovered a chance for Greeley he would sell out every dollar he was worth of government securities. I find the joke of going for Greeley is changing into serious consideration of consequences which may ensue if he should succeed; but I don't see how it is possible. If I know the Democratic party at all—and twenty-five years' intimate and active membership should have given me some knowledge therein—I feel sure that Greeley cannot poll more than half of its vote. I don't say that Grant will get the other half, for I think a large number will not vote at all. Now, allowing Greeley half the Democratic vote and one-third of the Republican (where he will get it I don't see), and Grant is re-elected by an immense majority. Nevertheless it behooves every one who values the prosperity of the country above mere party considerations, and the danger of change merely for the sake of change of the chief officer of the government, to pause and contemplate the yawning political chasm which lies at our very feet, ready to engulph a prosperous country in inevitable ruin."

The Boston Hebrew Leader closes an article expressing its gratitude to General Grant as follows: "With these facts before us, all will admit that General Grant is entitled, even if not according to the opinion of some, to the votes, at least to the gratitude and respect of the Jewish-American citizens."

The most remarkable political event of the present campaign, took place the other night at Columbus, Ohio. A delegation of over one hundred workingmen, mostly Democrats, employed at Gill's car shops, formed into procession, procured a band of music and banners, and marched up to the Grant club room and enrolled their names as members of the club. Just as they arrived at the club rooms a procession of colored men, who had been collected by the same sort of understanding among themselves, also marched to the club room and joined the club.

Mr. James Buffington is one of the "five Congressmen" of Massachusetts whom the Greeley men have claimed. A correspondent writing from Fall River says: "In conversation with him on Saturday he said that he should vote for Grant even if not another one in town should vote for him." So you see where he is. He is very popular here and in the district."

Governor Seymour, of Connecticut, whose Democracy has long been beyond the possibility of question, names a dozen of his personal and political friends to sustain the statement that the Greeley campaign in that State must fail, and that adhesion to it is the worst blow the party can receive.

Letters from South Carolina, Florida and Alabama give encouraging statements of the Republican situation there. In Florida one gentleman, not an office holder, who has recently traveled over the State, says there is no defection for Greeley; that there will be a purging and reorganization of the party, and that Grant's vote will be larger than that for the State ticket, owing to the Democrats voting for him. The negro and Democratic votes balance each other, while the white Republican vote is fully two thousand six hundred, of which three hundred and fifty only are carpet-baggers. Alabama advices predict confidently a Republican majority. Quite a number of Democrats are pronouncing against Greeley. Ex-Governor Patton and Governor Lindsey are both said to be desirous of a Republican nomination, Lindsey wanting the position of Congressman at large. In South Carolina there is a determined movement, first initiated by the best colored leaders and sustained by the more prominent white Republicans, by which the State will be taken out of the hands of the present corrupt administration.

We are constantly advised that the political honesty of the Democratic candidate ought not to be questioned by Republicans, because his pen has done such noble service in the Republican cause. This pen serves Greeley very much as Arnold's lame leg served him. Arnold was always boasting of his wounds after his treason. A prisoner, captured near Richmond, Va., in one of the traitor's marauds, was asked by Arnold: "What would the Americans do with me if they caught me?" "They would cut off the leg that was wounded in the service of your country," was the sturdy answer, "and bury it with the honors of war. The rest of you they would hang."

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Grade of the North Pacific.

A private letter dated at Big Hole River, Montana, from a member of a North Pacific surveying party, states that the average grade of the line is about sixteen feet per mile, with a maximum not to exceed forty feet, which occurs only in rising from the bottom to the bar. They were fifteen miles from the summit of North Fork pass, and expected to reach it with a grade of not to exceed fifty feet per mile. The writer says: "I wish some of our old Pennsylvanians, who shake their heads doubtfully about this country, could see these valleys. The bottom proper of this valley is covered with a perfect mat of native white and red clover and timothy. The second bottom, or bar, as miners call it, abounds in bunch grass, which possesses nutritious properties equal to any of the domestic grasses, and superior in one respect, retaining its sweetness and fattening properties during the entire winter."

Proposed Connection of the Grand Trunk and North Pacific Roads.

Richard Potter, President, and J. M. Grant, Secretary of the Grand Trunk Railroad, England, and several other railroad men who have been stopping in New York since their arrival from England, have gone to Montreal. The purpose of their visit is to negotiate for a connection of the Canada Grand Trunk Railroad, which is largely owned by British capitalists, with the Northern Pacific Railroad, by which the former road will largely control one of the great through routes between the Atlantic and Pacific.

A Novel Narrow Gauge Line.

The London Times has the following: A novel and experimental railway has just been constructed at Aldershott Camp. It is of eighteen inches gauge, and upon the "suspension" principle, patented by Mr. J. B. Fell. It is to be worked by a locomotive engine specially designed and built by Messrs. Manning, Wardle Co., of the Engine Works, Leeds. It is to meet military as well as other requirements that the "Narrow Gauge Suspension Railway" has been introduced. It can be made and worked at a much less cost than any other form of railway, and is capable of carrying the whole of the traffic of branch or mineral lines. The whole railway consists of a continuous structure, formed of wood or iron; a single row of pillars stand at regular intervals along the line; the lower ends of the pillars rest upon wood sleepers, and are steadied by transverse diagonal struts; holes are dug in the ground, the pillars placed in position, and the earth well rammed down. The length of the pillars varies according to the contour of the ground, for their upper ends must range with each other, so as to carry the superstructure; this is formed by two longitudinal beams of wood (or iron) placed side by side, with a space between them, bolted to, strutted from, and supported by, the pillars. The railway will thus be sometimes only seven feet above the surface, while in crossing valleys or ravines it may be from twenty to thirty feet high from the ground, and it may have curves or gradients as on any other railway. These longitudinal beams form continuous "sleepers," and carry four rails—two on their upper surfaces, and two on their outer sides; the surface rails are of iron; these carry the train, and may be of any desired gauge, from eight to eighteen inches; the side rails are of wood (or iron), nailed along near the lower edges of the beams, so as to be below the level of the carrying rails. They are peculiar to this system, and act as "guides" for the horizontal wheels of the wagons and carriages. Where sidings occur, or shunting is required, the switches are formed by making a twenty feet length of the railway to pivot on one end, while the other end, resting on a pair of rollers, travels from the main line to and from the siding. The carriages are suspended below the axles, by which arrangement the center of gravity is brought very low, and they are furnished with horizontal wheels running against the "guide" rails above described, whereby the equilibrium of the carriage is maintained, and it is rendered almost impossible for it to leave the rails. A committee of royal engineers, having been appointed by the War Office to investigate the merits of the system, reported so favorably that an experimental locomotive line of eighteen inches gauge, about one mile in length, has been made at Aldershott Camp. All the details appear to have been carefully considered, and, if the result is as satisfactory as anticipated, it is intended to make several miles of this railway in and about the camps at Aldershott, and in leisure times the soldiers will be exercised in taking down and putting it up again for military transport service.

THE NEW DIAMOND LAND.

Wonderful Discovery of Precious Stones at the Head-Waters of the Colorado and Chiquito—Diamonds, Rubies and Sapphires by the Pound.

A New Industry Opened Up to the American People, &c., &c, &c.

There is a tradition that when Cortez and his horde of rapacious followers were granted audience to Montezuma their eyes were dazzled by the gleam of the precious stones with which his mantle and sandals were embroidered, and when "they parted his garments among them," after having seized and deposed the unfortunate monarch, those articles of apparel thus bejewelled became a rare bone of contention among the Spanish chieftains. To satisfy the disappointed ones who failed to share in the despoiling of a king, Cortez caused it to be proclaimed that all the diamonds in "the Venice of the Aztecs" should at once be surrendered to the Spaniards under severe penalties, with the proviso that in the event no quid pro quo being returned complaint might be made to him. The latter clause, as it might be expected, amounted to a dead letter, and so exasperated were the unfortunate natives at being despoiled of their glittering gems, many of which had a sacred value, that they swore and bound their children by oaths never to reveal to the robbers the home of the diamond. Well was that oath kept. Long the Spaniard ruled in Mexico, but fruitless were his efforts in search of the Azec-Golconda. The mines, if worked at all, were worked secretly, and the jewels so scattered into distant districts that no trace was left which might lead to their fountain head. The secret, however, of their existence was probably soon lost, and from that day to this the source whence the belles of ancient Mexico otained the gems which formed the bracelets that clasped their pretty wrists and the necklaces which hung on their faintly tinted bosoms was lost to man. While the ancient Aztecs kept well the secret, the diamonds themselves made no sign. They apparently had no ambition to shine in the courts and palaces of Europe, and while the glories of the Koh-i-noor, the Moon of the Mountains, and other famous gems, were paraded among the regalia of the proudest monarchs in the Old World, the fellow-stones to the crown jewels of the Montezumas hid their light under a bushel, and there was no Ali Baba to say open sesame to their hiding place. But to use a vulgar proverb, it is a long lane that has no turning, and by some spade idly thrust into the soil by some wandering miner, the secret was discovered after four centuries of silence. He was no babbler, that miner, however, and the world was not to reap easily what his good ends had sown. His knowledge of the whereabouts of what may prove the richest diamond district in the world he shared with one or two companions, but they, unable from want of capital themselves to work the mines profitably, confided the tremendous tale to a select few of San Francisco's most substantial capitalists. These capitalists were very Philips the Silent, and took good care not to make their El Dorado public.

THE NEW EL DORADO.

Their operations were conducted so secretly that they were enabled to visit the treasure-trove and secure the sum of $200,000 worth of precious stones in the vaults of one of the San Francisco banks before any little bird was aware of their goings on. Even now, though the telegraph has announced these particulars through the length and breadth of the land, there are few outside the Company's circle who can point out the spot where diamonds, rubies, sapphires, and emeralds of no small size, and which are far from contemptible in value, can be picked up by the quart! Every one knows that the new fields are somewhere near the head-waters of the Rio Colorado and Chiquito, but the "somewhere" is very indefinite, and none are wiser for this knowledge. There are rumors indeed, that this garden of diamonds is a very Arcadia, and—to confirm the tradition—that these were once the mines worked by the Aztecs; that ruins of structures which owe their erection to the hand of no European are scattered around in the vicinity, while implements, evidently of great antiquity, and adapted for mining purposes, have been excavated near them; but whether this is so or not, it matters little. At this moment in our very midst are specimens from the Aztec mines. In the safes of Messrs. Tiffany & Co. are locked stones which, were they cut and polished, would be worth a king's ransom, but in their present condition ill would fare the robber who got them into his hands; they would be harder to dispose of than an elephant whiter than themselves. Some of the stones, have, however, been cut, but only for the purpose of testing their quality; a few of the smaller, worth perhaps several hundred dollars apiece, have been prepared for setting; the more valuable, some of which are rated as high as $5,000, are still in the rough. The chief of the diamond department of the establishment has pronounced the stones superior to those from the newly discovered district at the Cape of Good Hope, and equal to even the South American diamond. The especial characteristics of California stones is their whiteness, which is a peculiarity observed of other diamonds discovered in North America—those found in the Southern Atlantic States. None of the stones have as yet been put in the market, the cutting only having been done with a view to estimate their quality and value. Besides the diamonds a few rubies have also been tested by connoisseurs, but are pronounced of inferior quality. None of the other stones have yet been forwarded, and one is left to his imagination or his reminiscence of the "Arabian Nights," to conjure up the glittering quartz in the San Francisco bank, and the pecks and bushels not yet extracted from the treasure laden bosom of mother earth. The telegram stating, with Spartan brevity, that besides the diamonds there were sapphires, and emeralds in the bank's vault, certainly could have conveyed but little meaning to the ordinary mortal. There was something suggestive, however, in the statement about some of the sapphires being as large as pigeons' eggs.

This discovery, even if not so great as anticipated, will undoubtedly give a great impetus to the diamond cutting business, which is at a low ebb in this country. Only Tiffany's and a Boston house make a pretense of going into it all, and they hardly employ a dozen workmen between them. There is but little doubt that the diamond cutters of Amsterdam, which is the home of diamond cutting, who are reported to be striking for higher prices, would be glad to enter upon the new field of operations which the discovery of the new diamond fields have opened to them.

Whether this avalanche of precious stones, when precipitated in its entirety upon the world, will "bear" the markets greatly seems to be a disputed question, but there is every reason to believe that it will. To be sure, the calling in account of the few facilities for the business will be tedious work, and it will be a long time before the stones are ready for sale, yet slowly but surely they will force prices down. Not a quarter of a century ago $1,500,000 worth of Brazilian diamonds, although in the rough, so overstocked the English market that many of the first houses went down.—N. Y. World.

Texas Cattle Trade.

Even before railways began to furnish additional outlets for Texan cattle, the trade in them was immense. For without these auxiliaries it has rapidly augmented from year to year. It is estimated that 600,000 beeves have been driven from Texas into Kansas, Nebraska, and the Western Territories during the past year. It takes about 200,000 head of beeves annually to support the Indians; for these the government pays. In all the ranges of country between the Rocky Mountains and the Mississippi, as high up as British America, they receive cattle from Texas. They are driven in immense droves through the Indian country. As a drove travels but six or eight miles a day, when on a long journey, the cattle improve and increase in flesh when the grass is good. Many cattle are driven to the Pacific coast, but in this trade few beeves are taken, the principal portion of the droves consisting of heifers intended for stock raising. It takes two seasons to get a drove through from Texas to Washington Territory on the Pacific; but the price obtained there yields a heavy profit to the drovers. Texas as yet is the great breeding and herding district, and Kansas the recruiting and grazing region. The money branch of this trade is carried on principally at Kansas City, Missouri, one bank last year passing over its counter $3,000,000 cattle money alone. With increased railway facilities this traffic must greatly increase till the slaughter of cattle for only their hides, horns, &c., shall be no more heard of. It is to be hoped, too, that the experiments so often, but as yet unsuccessfully tried, to preserve the meat slaughtered there for transportation to other cities in fresh and usable condition may ere long prove the undertaking practicable. Should this ever happen the cattle trade will undoubtedly receive still further impetus, which alone would make the fortune of any State or people, setting aside all other resources.

Immense dissatisfaction exists in the English civil service on account of the lowness of rates of pay. This is a matter which Mr. Gladstone has got to look into very shortly, and one which will cause him some anxiety, the London newspapers say.

SECOND EDITION.

WASHINGTON.

Politics in the Northwest.

Iowa and Michigan All Right.

A New Tariff Manual Issued.

Sumner Honored with a Serenade.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 9, 1872.

Encouraging from the Northwest.

Secretary Belknap is in receipt of letters from Iowa most encouraging to the Republicans, and from which he believes their majority will not be much if any less than forty thousand. Only one Democratic Congressman is probable in any contingency in the State, and even this is doubtful. From Michigan the political news through private sources is altogether favorable. Eight Republican Representatives and a large Republican majority are morally certain from the State in November. Representative Conger was renominated the other day, Representatives Foster and Waldron will probably be returned, and Hopson, a former member from the Third district is likely to be elected.

Will Not Follow Sumner.

The National Republican of this city this morning editorially says that the reports that Mr. Samuel Hooper is on the eve of declaring for Greeley are ungenerous and unjust. Mr. Hooper, although the personal friend of Mr. Sumner, will not follow him in his treason against the Republican party.

Tariff Manual.

The Treasury Department has just published, for popular distribution and use, a manual of the existing tariff acts, accompanied by a complete tabular arrangement of the rates of duty on all imported articles of every kind and character under the present statistics, together with the special clauses of the last tariff act. The whole makes a forty page pamphlet, convenient and valuable.

Sumner Serenaded.

The serenade to Mr. Sumner this evening passed off with perfect propriety and to the entire satisfaction of all attending. The evening was clear and pleasant, the audience large and respectful, and the whole proceeding brief and appropriate. Mr. Sumner spoke from the steps of his residence, near the Arlington House, and during his remarks the most perfect silence was observed. Curiosity and expectation of a political harangue doubtless attracted many to the place, but they went away disappointed. The affair, whatever may have been the intention of its authors, was accepted by Mr. Sumner entirely in the light of a personal compliment, and was restricted by his remarks within that limit.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 9, 1872.

SUMNER SERENADED—MAKES A BRIEF SPEECH.

Senator Sumner was serenaded to-night by Dr. Augusta, William A. Wormley and other colored citizens. A number of white persons were also present. In response to repeated calls, Senator Sumner appeared at the door of his residence and was greeted with great applause. Dr. Augusta introduced him as America's greatest statesman and life long and firm friend of the African race. Senator Sumner then spoke as follows:

FRIENDS AND FELLOW CITIZENS—I am touched by this voluntary expression of friendship, and beg to thank you from my heart in seeing you on this occasion. I think of you only as personal friends, among whom I have lived more than twenty years. During this considerable period changes have occurred of incalculable importance to the country, but especially to the colored people. When I entered upon my public duties here slavery was in the ascendant, giving law to usages of life. The colored man, even though not a slave, was degraded; was not allowed to testify in court. He was shut out from public schools; he was excluded from public conveyances, and thrust away from the ballot box. But here in the national capital all these terrible wrongs have ceased; court rooms, school houses, horse cars, ballot boxes, all are open, never to be closed. Revolutions do not go backward, therefore you may rest secure in what has been won. Of this be sure, slavery will never be revived, nor will you be restrained or limited in any of these rights you now enjoy. [Applause and three cheers for Sumner.] Most sincerely do I congratulate you on these signal triumphs, so little to be expected when I first became acquainted with you, and when we consider the brief period in which they have been accomplished, I assure you will unite with me in hope and trust for the future. [Cries of "we will."] It is my duty to remind you that the work is not yet completed. This will be only by the enactment of a civil rights bill which shall relieve the citizen, whoever he may be, from any exclusion or discrimination on account of his color. Only then will be established that equality before the law to which now for the first time in our history all political parties are distinctly pledged. Here there can be no question; it is in the platforms of all. The early passage of such law I do not doubt. Then will you have all the assurance of your rights that can be found in the Constitution and law. But that law will be the cap-stone. I shall not disguise from you that something more will be needed. There must be a constant, watchful public opinion behind to see that these are enforced in letter and spirit. There must be no failure in awakening and inaugurating public opinion. You can do much, I would almost say you can do everything. How constantly have I urged, in public speech, and in all my intercourse with you, that your colored fellow-citizens must insist upon their rights always, by petition, by speech and by vote. Above all never vote for any man who is not true to you. Make allegiance to you the measure of support. [Cheers.] So doing, all parties will seek your votes. You will be felt, and your cause will be irresistible. Please accept these few words as my acknowledgement of your kindness this evening. [Cries of "go on!"] From long acquaintance you know something of my sympathies. [A voice, "I do."] From the beginning I have sought to prove true, and always to the end I shall seek to serve you. To your cause my life is dedicated, and nothing can turn me from it—nothing can tempt me or drive me from its support.

The Senator retired as the crowd applauded. The band played several airs and a number of white and colored persons entered the house to shake hands with Mr. Sumner.

The Great National Camp Meeting—Forty Thousand People Expected.

Special to the Pittsburgh Commercial.

URBANA, O., August 9, 1872.

The arrivals to the national camp meeting continue to increase. About two thousand persons arrived here to-day. It is expected there will be at least forty thousand people here by Sunday to attend the meeting.

Grandson of Thomas Jefferson Killed.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. VA., August 9.—Major Thomas Jefferson Randolph, great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson and contractor on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, was killed yesterday evening, near Hawk's Nest, Fayette county, by a premature explosion while blasting.

THE OIL REGIONS.

New Flowing Well Near Titusville.

[From the Titusville Herald of yesterday.]

A new well was struck at six o'clock yesterday morning on the Abbott and O'Hare tract in the Octave district, about one and a half miles south of this city. The sand rock was struck at a depth of 850 feet, and when the drill penetrated two feet further oil commenced to flow, spouting at intervals of about half an hour to the height of one hundred feet. The tools were immediately withdrawn, and the force of the gas prevented the men from drilling any further. Last evening, however, they determined, the force of gas having somewhat diminished, to try and drill deeper. The boiler is about 125 yards from the well, which is considered a safe distance, the gas being beyond the reach of fire. This well makes a better show than any other thus far struck in the Octave district. The land interest is owned by Hugh O. Hare, Wm. H. Abbott, Thomas C. Weaver and Joseph Dixon, being on a tract of fifty acres in fee. The owners of the working interest have leased the greater portion of this tract on which the well stands. Their names are Thomas C. Weaver, A. Purtill and Joseph Dixon. The well was yesterday visited by a large number of speculators and others. This tract is on the old northeast and southwest belt, into which the Col. Drake well was the first to penetrate. That it is highly prolific between Oil creek and Benninghoff run there can now be no question, and the shrewdest operators consider it only a question of time when the whole of this line between these two points will be made to yield as largely as any of the tracts in this vicinity.

THE ship Josephine Oulton, now in New York, caught a stupendous whale off Cape Clear recently, which was lying sick on the surface of the water. The captain states: "Birds were playing around it, and some had commenced picking on it. There were two small holes in the body picked by the birds. I launched the boat, with harpoons, lines, knives, and everything needed to capture it, made fast to the whale, brought ship to under the lee and rigged her tackles, gangway and center, and commenced cutting. There was no struggle whatever. The whale being too far gone to struggle, we cut him up and took him on board. We took out at least four thousand gallons of oil, and threw away, at least three barrels of ambergris, worth ounce for ounce with gold. We tried the oil out and saved the head and fins, which are now on board. The whale was about seventy feet in length, the head measursng twelve feet."

THE EIGHTH IN THE FIELD.

Organization of A Grant and Wilson Club in the Eighth Ward.

Last night a large meeting of the citizens of the Eighth ward was held in the school house on Franklin street for the purpose of organizing a Grant and Wilson campaign club.

George B. Chalmers was called to the chair and Alex. Seanor officiated as Secretary. About sixty names were inscribed on the roll of membership.

The following committees were appointed.

On Organization—Jno. S. Lambie, William Kerr, Ham. Lowe, Samuel Kilgore and Alex. Seanor.

On Marching Corps—Samuel Kilgore, Geo. Boothe and Henry Cochrane.

On Finance—Wm. H. Glenn, Jas. B. Moore and Alex. Seanor.

On Meetings and Speeches—J. J. Boothe, Wm. Little, Ed. Magee and Wm. Kerr.

On Naturalization, Assessment and Enrollment—Alex. Seanor, James Moore, D. J. Myers, Emanuel Ecker and Wm. Graham.

On motion it was resolved to erect a stand for meetings, on Webster avenue and Fulton street.

It was also resolved to organize a marching corps.

Mr. Jos. S. Haymaker was then introduced by Mr. Lambie, and addressed the meeting in a telling manner. During the course of Mr. Haymaker's remarks, a band of music which had been parading the streets, entered, followed by a large number of Republicans.

Mr. Haymaker's speech occupied an hour in delivery and was listened to with the closest attention throughout.

The meeting adjourned with cheers for Grant, Wilson and Hartranft. The club will meet again on Friday evening, August 16th.

A THROAT CUT.

A Woman Attempts to Commit Suicide.

A woman named Mary Jane Osburn, wife of Wm. Osburn, a puddler, attempted to commit suicide yesterday at her residence on Mulberry alley, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. The matter was investigated by Mr. J. B. Williams, one of the officers of the Guardians of the Poor of this city. He learned from the woman's husband that yesterday morning she arose at about five o'clock and went down stairs. She presently came up stairs again and entered the sleeping room where he was still lying in bed. She remained there a moment and then passed through into another room. In a few moments the husband heard a noise in the adjoining room that caused him to think that all was not right. He sprang from the bed and ran into the room and discovered his wife with a table knife in her hand, which she had probably brought up with her on her return from the lower story. With it she had inflicted a terrible wound on her throat. The gash, which was directly across the throat, was about two inches long, and so deep that the windpipe was entirely severed. The arteries and principal veins had fortunately been missed. Dr. Todd was immediately summoned, and succeeded, with considerable difficulty, in sewing up the wound. The patient was much exhausted by loss of blood, but the physician gave it as his opinion that with careful attention she might recover. The injured woman is about thirty years of age, and it is reported, has been in the habit of indulging in the excessive use of liquor.

Rev. Alexander Clark and the First Methodist.

The Committee appointed by the members of the First Methodist Church, to convey to Rev. Alexander Clark their action in electing him as pastor, have officially notified him and solicited an answer as to whether he will be able to accept. Mr. Clark has formally replied, expressing his warmest attachment to the congregation, but reminding them that he accepted in good faith, from the General Conference, the positions as editor of the Methodist Recorder and the Sunday School, and that his duties as editor, obliged him to decline any regular pastoral charge. Mr. Clark has proved a very acceptable and popular pastor, but he cannot well be spared from his present field of usefulness.

THE REV. ROBERT RODGERS, of New York, will preach under the auspices of the Wylie avenue church in the hall of the Eleventh ward public school house, on Sabbath evening at 7½ o'clock. Seats free and a cordial invitation extended to all.

WE clip the following from the Troy, (N. Y.) Whig: Some three months since Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., commenced advertising in the Whig, an article called "Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy." We believed that at that time it was one of the many catch-penny arrangements to swindle people out of their money, but during the past few weeks have become convinced to the contrary. We know of several prominent citizens who have suffered from that loathsome disease, "Catarrh," and they pronounce Dr. Sage's Remedy no humbug, and in several instances have been entirely cured. We desire to give Dr. Pierce the benefit of the same. 598

ARKANSAS STATE LOAN.

A Limited Number Offered at

70 CENTS AND ACCRUED INTEREST.

These Bonds were issued under act of the Legislature for the purpose of assisting the "Arkansas Central Railway," in accordance with Section 6 of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, which provides as follows: "The credit of the State or counties shall never be loaned for any purpose without the consent of the people thereof, expressed through the ballot-box," which act was submitted to the people at the general election held in November, 1868, and unanimously ratified by them. The Legislature of the State has no power to grant any additional aid whatever, consequently the debt of the State cannot be increased except by amending the Constitution through a vote of the whole people.

As an additional security, these Bonds are guaranteed by the Arkansas Central Railway by special indorsement, recorded as a mortgage in every county through which the line passes, acting as a direct lien upon the property of the Company, its Real Estate, Rolling Stock and Franchises.

It is recited in every Bond: "The faith and credit of this State are hereby solemnly and irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of this Bond."

Every possible safeguard surrounds them to protect the holder from the dangers of corruption and fraud.

Unlike ordinary Railway Bonds, those now offered are negotiable at any time on the New York Stock Exchange, as may be observed from the daily stock quotations.

The Bonds are of the denomination of $1,000 each, payable to bearer, and are therefore negotiable by simple delivery. The interest coupons attached to each Bond are payable semi-annually at the office of the Union Trust Company, in New York, by the Treasurer of the State, on the 1st day of October and April in each year, until the principal of the Bonds are redeemed at par in 1898.

FOR WORK ON

Fifth Avenue Improvement.

Measures for the improvement of Fifth avenue having been delayed by circumstances over which the Commissioners had no control, all bids for work made in pursuance of their advertisement of the 13th OF MAY LAST remain unopened. As the lapse of time with changes in the prices of labor and materials may have altered the views of bidders, the Commissioners have determined to extend the time for the reception of proposals for their work indicated in their advertisement of the 13th of May last, until

Tuesday, the 20th of August,

Until which period bidders are at liberty to withdraw their previous bids, modify them, or submit new ones.

Therefore, sealed proposals for the Grading, Paving, Curbing and Masonry on Fifth avenue, from Charlotte street to Penn avenue, will be received at the office of the Fifth Avenue Commissioners, Room No. 35, Third Floor, New City Hall, until 3 o'clock P. M., AUGUST 20TH, 1872.

Separate proposals must be made for each description of work.

The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids for the proposed work.

Plans and specifications may be seen, and all other necessary information obtained, on application to ISAAC MORLEY, the Secretary and Engineer of the Commissioners.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, 1872.

The receipts of raw iron at Pittsburgh, for the month of July, 1872, were 35,370 tons, against 22,340 tons for the corresponding month of 1871—an increase of 13,030 tons.

Buckalew has not yet accounted for his opposition to the execution of the draft in Columbia county. As the leading spirit of the Fishing Creek Confederacy, he has leave to rise and explain.

The Hon. James S. Rutan, of Beaver, has been renominated as the Republican candidate for State Senator in the Sixteenth district. Mr. Rutan made a most trustworthy and efficient representative, and as Speaker of the Senate gave entire satisfaction. He is very popular in the district, and will be re-elected by a handsome majority.

Buckalew voted against the Civil Rights bill, the Fifteenth amendment, the repeal of the Fugitive Slave law, the Freedmen's Bureau, and every measure calculated to secure the rights of the blacks. Is it any wonder, then, that his friends fear the colored voters of Pennsylvania? He has had many a whack at the poor negroes; now they propose to have a whack at him.

The New York Express tries to console itself for the defeat of its party in North Carolina by endeavoring to believe that better luck awaits it elsewhere. During a recent visit of its editor to New England, that paper says he was informed—in answer to an inquiry whether there were any Greeleyites thereabouts—that the "woods were full of them." No doubt of it. The reply is the most pertinent illustration of the present condition of the Greeley-ocracy that could be given. Unquestionably they are in the woods—the perplexing difficulty, and one which they seem entirely unable to solve, is how to get out of them.

With reference to ex-Congressman Farnsworth's accession to the Confederate party, the Chicago Times, unexceptionable Democratic authority, effectually disposes of the matter by saying that his letter, like those of Sumner and Banks, "in nearly all its paragraphs is the plea of a demagogue," soured by the defeat of his political aspirations. But a few days before the Elgin convention he told his neighbors in Kane county that he should advocate the return of Grant; in other words, that he should advocate that which he had "been long convinced would not be for the good of the country!" Farnsworth's letter, says the Times, shows that he can eat crow, although he cannot give a respectable reason why he should eat it—and this, we take it, exactly covers the case.

A noticeable feature of this campaign is the lively interest manifested in the struggle by our naturalized fellow-citizens. It is evident that the great bulk of the German and Scandinavian vote will be given to the Republican candidates. In the Northwest the Norwegians, Swedes and Danes constitute a very important part of the population, and in more than one State will exert a preponderant influence upon its vote. The Republican party is to be congratulated upon the fact that this thoughtful and thrifty class of citizens is found almost wholly ranged under its banners in the present contest, and this is all the more gratifying because the uprising among them appears to be spontaneous, and is not the result of any outside political engineering. Their countrymen in Pennsylvania and other States will be glad to learn of their interest in the triumph of the cause which they also have so warmly at heart.

One swallow does not make a summer. While the result of the North Carolina election is every way encouraging to Republicans in other States, it by no means warrants the conclusion that the race is to be won in a canter. The Confederates have lost their first battle, and with it the moral prestige on which they counted so largely for future effect. But, although their defeat must necessarily dishearten them for the time being, they will not on that account relax their prosecution of the fight. On the contrary, their disappointment will cause them to redouble their efforts to win in other quarters the advantages they failed to obtain in North Carolina. And this sour and sullen resolve calls for the exercise of the utmost possible energy on the part of Republicans everywhere, more particularly in our own State, where the great crash of the battle is to occur. Our friends in North Carolina have broken the enemy's line, and we have the right to feel elated over their gallant success. But let us see to it that our ranks are fully ready for the shock.

It is a notorious fact that not a few of Greeley's Southern supporters advocate his election on the express ground that, as President, he would "pay the losses of the South." It is now said that Confederate bonds in Europe, which before his nomination were absolutely worthless, except as waste paper, have suddenly obtained a marketable value, and that none can be purchased from parties owning them, and it is reported that certain foreign bankers claim to have received assurances that, in the event of Horace Greeley's election, the bonds in question will ultimately possess considerable value. The rumor derives significance only from the fact that the Southern politicians who support Mr. Greeley, and who were foremost in their attempts to destroy the government a few years ago, openly declare their belief that their candidate is in favor of remunerating the Southern States for the losses incurred in the prosecution of the slaveholders' rebellion. However unlikely it is that the Confederate debt will ever be saddled upon the country, some of Mr. Greeley's new friends make no concealment of the fact that they propose to effect it if possible. And therefore it is well for the people to be on their guard.

Two more lies nailed. Here is number one: For months past a forgery has been going the rounds of the opposition press, forming the text of innumerable virulent speeches and paragraphs during that time, purporting to be a letter of President Grant, under date of February 17th, 1869, in reply to a gentleman who had forwarded him a testimonial from certain citizens of New York. The forgery was in the date, the letter itself having been written in February, 1866, while the writer was General of the United States armies. Here is number two: Mr. A. T. Stewart has been reported to have said that President Grant's cottage at Long Branch was purchased and presented to him by eight subscribers, after he became President; whereas, that which Mr. Stewart did say was, "that he knew of one gentleman who had been invited to become a subscriber to a fund for the purchase of a cottage for the President." No such subscription was made, nor had the President any knowledge of or complicity with the intended donation. The World, which, in common with the rest of the Confederate press, has given currency to these venomous fabrications, has sufficient fairness to make editorial admission of their "inaccuracy," albeit it is somewhat grudgingly done. Now let us see whether the lesser lights of the opposition will have the decency to follow its example.

It takes a good many frosts to make a winter, and although the outcome of the Tribune's North Carolina campaign was of a very different character from that which it had hoped for, there is yet time for that journal to retrieve its disaster and vindicate its capacity for Democratic leadership. The State of West Virginia holds an election on the 22d of the present month for State officers and a new Constitution, one feature of which is a clause, to be voted on separately, to prevent negroes from ever holding office in the State. This proposition was framed in deference to the Tribune's new friends and allies; and, as was naturally to have been expected, it has intensified Republican sentiment to a degree which bids fair to cause considerable damage to the Confederate party of "reconciliation," unless some abler champion than has yet appeared shall presently come to the rescue. There is an impression abroad that the proposition is a gross and flagrant outrage, for which not even the shadow of an excuse exists, and the colored people of the State have an idea that their rights and liberties are menaced and endangered by it. Here is an admirable opportunity for that great exponent of the doctrine of equal rights to all to enlighten their ignorance, and convince them of their foolish mistake. Let the Tribune fling itself into the breach.

BUCKALEW EXPLAINS ONE VOTE!

Charles R. Buckalew, the Confederate candidate for Governor, after due deliberation, has mustered courage to write a letter to the Lycoming Standard, in which he explains the first vote in the long list comprising his "Record" in the United States Senate, as set forth in the Commercial of August 5th. He voted (December 22, 1863,) against an amendment "that no bounties except such as are now provided by law shall be paid to any person enlisting after the fifth of January next," and explains that this amendment, against which he voted, "was to reduce bounties." Very well. Let us give him the benefit of this, and say he voted once against reducing bounties. This was his first vote on the subject; and in the light of all his subsequent votes and acts, it is only charitable to suppose that he voted right by chance or accident that once. At all events, his record shows no other vote consistent with his first, and he makes no attempt to explain a single other vote, but disposes of the entire record in this evasive manner:

"This false imputation which I have exposed is no more gross and unjust than many others in the article sent me, but I have taken it because it stands first in order among them and constitutes a fit representative of the whole."

We have no disposition to do Mr. Buckalew the slightest injustice, and there is no need to misrepresent his dark record as a Senator. Every general rule may be said to have its exception, and, from whatever cause this single exception may have been brought about, he is welcome to the credit of it. And now it will be in order to explain his scores of other votes, if he can. That he has not attempted to do so is the strongest possible proof that he has not been misrepresented. This one vote out of fifty is a rare exception indeed—and, in the language of the poet:

"Such rare exceptions, shining in the dark,
Prove, rather than impeach, the just remark."

PRESIDENT GRANT AND THE PEOPLE.

The Courrier des Etats-Unis is not pleased with President Grant's response to the speech delivered by the Marquis de Noailles on the occasion of presenting his credentials as French Minister at Washington. "There is only one thing," says the Courrier, "which strikes us in the words pronounced by the President of the United States—namely, their triteness (banalité) and the utter absence of any thought." And then the French editor goes on to remark that the occasion afforded the President a chance of making a little electoral capital, such as under present circumstances should not be disdained. "In the course of his administration Mr. Grant has not precisely conquered the sympathies of the Franco-American population; he has not missed an occasion of showing himself hostile to France, and by a few words, appropriately placed there, he might have gained a slight advantage over his competitor, who, also, on his part, has much to do to win the suffrages of our compatriots."

The Frenchman's criticism is legitimate enough, and points out a feature of the President's address of welcome to the ambassador, which quite naturally seemed surprising to a foreigner long familiar with American politics, and deeply conversant, as an attentive observer, with the election tactics of American candidates for popular favor. General Grant, a candidate for re-election, is, of course, presumed to be aware that, in consequence of the recently awakened interest of French citizens in the politics of their adopted country, and of their consequent organization for the exertion of political influence, the French vote has lately become a matter of some practical concern. As the editor intimates, the reception of the new French Minister presented an occasion where the President, in the most natural way, and without the possibility of giving offense to any person, or to any nationality, might have used expressions which would have deeply gratified all French citizens, and might have decided them at once to give him their support in November. His failure to take advantage of the opportunity, therefore, naturally strikes a shrewd politician as a remarkable oversight—indeed, as a phenomenon.

The truth is, that to candid people who have studied General Grant's character and ways, the omission referred to seems no oversight—no evidence of want of tact, but a trait strictly characteristic of the single-minded, direct, and masculine nature of the man. His reply to the ambassador's remarks was very brief, very neat in expression, and simply perfect in sentiment and in appropriateness to the time. Any addition of the tenor and purport suggested by the Courrier could have been inspired only by the selfish motive which it thinks should have been present, and, paltry in origin, it would have detracted from the official grace of the speech, and from the personal dignity of the speaker. Whatever Grant's faults and defects may be, he is no charlatan, and disdains all the petty dexterities by which a smaller man would seek to kill two birds with one stone, or to make "electoral capital" while performing the duties of his office.

The same dignity and self-respect which were apparent in this instance habitually regulate the President's conduct and bearing, as the people have not failed to remark. While in matters affecting the government of the country General Grant has shown unmistakably his deference for the popular will, and has proved his readiness to surrender favorite views of his own on discovering the opposition of the people, he manifests no desire to enlist popular enthusiasm, and no concern to conciliate unreasonable hostility. Half the clamor of which he has been and is the object might have been quieted, or even changed into applause, by giving way in regard to things relatively trifling. But Grant is what he is in virtue of his character of resolution and steadfastness where his own judgment is thoroughly convinced as to right and propriety; and to such a spirit there are no trifles. He has been fiercely and most unscrupulously denounced for spending so much time away from Washington. It is not to be supposed for a moment that for him to stay almost constantly in the capital would involve great hardship or self-denial, and he is no doubt well assured that some popular favor would be the result of silencing his enemies on that favorite topic. But conscious of really neglecting no important duty in consequence of his absence from Washington, well convinced that "the country does not need him to sit up with it of nights," he pursues the even tenor of his way, without seeming to care for idle denunciation, or for the possible effects of his insouciance upon his popularity. Similar manly inflexibility is apparent in the constancy with which the President stands by his friends. Himself satisfied of their worth, his unwavering friendship seems to say to the people, "I do not intend to yield to what seems to me groundless complaints, and if you do not like my firmness, why you have your remedy, and may use it if you please." The people admire and approve of so masculine a character. Demagogues can be found everywhere, and any day in the year, and the people well know that they shall have demagogues, as they shall have the poor, always with them. But having found a President courageous enough to assert his own will where self-respect requires its assertion, and proud enough and self-reliant enough to disdain the cultivation of popularity by paltry arts, they are not going to put a stigma upon him and his administration by choosing Horace Greeley as his successor.

UNMASKING.

Judge J. S. Black—who as late as May 20th declared there were many thousands of Democrats who would refuse to be dragooned or bullied into the support of the Greeley movement, and who, at a still more recent period, is reported to have said that if one should rake this world and the two adjacent, it would be impossible to find a more unfit man than Greeley for President—has come out for the Confederate candidate, upon the ground that after maturely considering his character and career, he is of opinion that the Confederate party may so far trust him as to feel confident that his election would "begin the process of the gradual extinction" of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, by which, in his view, the instrument on which they were engrafted was turned into "a bill of attainder." Judge Black is not sanguine enough to hope that it will give the Confederate party "everything at once," but he firmly believes that his election would be the introductory step to the "extinction" of the reconstruction acts and amendments, and the final restoration of the Lost Cause. With this understanding of what Greeley is now, and what he is likely to be in the future, the Judge thinks no true member of the Confederate party need hesitate to support him, particularly when there is taken into account "the moral influence which the Democracy will necessarily exert upon his conduct." These are some of the reasons which Judge Black assigns in explanation and vindication of his course. He has thoroughly satisfied himself that Greeley can be used as a serviceable tool wherewith to accomplish the designs of those who mean to recover in the Union what they lost by going out of it—and he is willing to assist in utilizing him to that end. People of Pennsylvania, what response have you to make to this open declaration that the Democracy intend to reopen the issues settled by the constitutional amendments, as soon as the opportunity arrives? Shall the verdicts of the war be repudiated, or shall they stand? That is the question upon which, in October and November, you will be called upon to pronounce.

There seems to be a very considerable difference of opinion between some of Mr. Greeley's friends concerning the proper estimate to be placed upon his character, and the grounds on which he is supposed to deserve support. Judge Black, whose letter is elsewhere referred to, favors his election because it will "begin the process of the gradual extinction" of the hated reconstruction acts and amendments; while Sumner lends him the light of his countenance for the reason that he believes he will preserve these guarantees of liberty intact. The Senator accepts him because he sees in his past anti-slaveryism the sure promise of his future fidelity—while the Judge indorses him on the ground that, "although he did join the abolitionists in their 'devil's dance,' he never learned to keep step with his partners." If Mr. Sumner is not too much engrossed in the contemplation of his own greatness to bestow some slight attention on this matter, it is respectfully suggested that he should do so without delay. He will find it interesting.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

The Tribune charges the President with having trespassed upon its domain. It says he keeps "an idiot."

The Industrial League of Philadelphia proposes to disseminate among the colleges of the country the standard works in favor of Protection. This is an important missionary enterprise.

The strictness of the German law against certain religious orders is to be somewhat relaxed. It is not to be a crusade against all the monks; for example, the Franciscans and Dominicans, having been threatened here and there, are to be left on sufferance so long as they behave.

Quiet, steady-going New London is creeping into the newspapers. She is sending a fleet of seal-fishing vessels away out to sea, and the old times of her sailing notoriety are being revived.

A number of Chinamen employed by the California Pacific Railroad to shovel gravel from a pit near Chico, recently took up the pit as a mining claim, and have developed an excellent gold mine.

From the triple point of view of the fecundity of marriages, of the absolute number of births, and of the excess of births over deaths, France occupies the lowest place of all the European States.

New York had a brilliant meteoric display the other evening, which convinced many skeptics thereabouts that the comet will duly make its appearance, as announced, on Monday next.

At a swimming establishment in New York, a "young lady" fell backward into the water, and inadvertently gave vent to a frightful oath. This led to an investigation, and it transpired that the profane person was "a young man of a distinguished family."

Some of the watering-place correspondents get things gloriously mixed. It is one of the diseases of New York journalism that the papers are afflicted with ignorant letter-writers, who indulge in personalities which are as untruthful as they are scandalous.

Arrangements have been made for a visit of the twelve English amateur cricketers (now on their way to this country) to Philadelphia, and they will play a number of games with the experts of that city on the grounds of the Germantown club.

Since the early days of California, when the restless miner forsook paying claims to go off in search of better diggings, there has never been larger gold returns, made from supposed "worked out" localities, in that State than at the present time.

Unripe fruit and over-ripe melons are making it exceedingly lively for the Southern doctors, according to the papers.

In consequence of the new tariff law there is extraordinary activity at present in the withdrawal of goods from bond at the principal eastern ports.

The health of New Orleans has this summer been remarkably good, the mortality having been even less than in the winter. The Picayune attributes the improvement to the purifying agency of heavy rains, and a better supply of fresh fruits and vegetables.

During the late hurricane in Ohio a bolt of flannel, containing forty-six yards, was carried nine miles by the wind. Letters blown from a postoffice were picked up nineteen miles away.

The new Chicago directory contains one hundred and thirty thousand names; twenty thousand more than last year.

A bolt of lightning in Missouri recently unhinged a door, carried it across the bed of a sleeping couple, and deposited it over a cradle where a little child was lying, without injuring any one. So says a local paper.

It is popularly believed, in many parts of Long Island, that residents of a district where the soil has been enriched with fish are more liable to be attacked by lockjaw, in the event of accident.

The coal supply of St. Louis is in jeopardy, from the strike of the miners in the St. Clair, Illinois, mining districts. Nearly all the coal received in St. Louis comes from this district, and most of the coal which is used on steamboats and railroads.

A comparative statement of the French and American five per cent. loans shows the former to be worth 84.50 and the latter 97.81, with the interest credit in favor of the United States five per cents.

Nobody ought to poke fun at the crow as an article of Democratic diet. North Carolina shows that it is as good as anything else to die at.

A new dove-tailing machine has just been invented which, for the purposes of a cabinet shop, and for box and trunk manufacturers, is said to possess advantages over any dove-tailing machine in the market for rapidity of execution and beauty and strength of work.

The people of Australia are just beginning to find out the advantages of the street car system over the old fashioned and slow omnibus. The Melbourne Omnibus Company are inaugurating the movement, and have published a pamphlet to show the great development which these tramways give to city travel, owing to the extra speed and other facilities.

The First Merchants' Bank of New York was established about eighty years ago. The bank is still in existence, and is the center of all gold operations, the checks of the Gold Room all being drawn on the institution.

The immense raft which has so long obstructed the Red river appears to move up stream instead of down, the motion being at the rate of about two miles a year. The explanation of this retrograde movement is that the logs of the lower end of the raft are continually broken away and carried off by the floods and freshets, while the other end is continually receiving additions.

A writer in the Constitutionnel devotes an article to the "public health of Europe and the dangers of pure water." The tables of mortality which he gives indicate a generally excellent state of the public health. There is no trace anywhere, he says, of serious epidemics, in the west—that is, and cholera, which has been announced in Russia and on the eastern frontier of Prussia, does not seem to have yet passed these bounds. Nevertheless, the heavy roll of diarrhœa cases in England, the instances of isolated cholera in London and Paris, and the infantile cholera among ourselves, ought to make us watchful of all affections of the kind. Most frequently these maladies come not so much from the heat, but are due to diet. A very common cause is the use of pure, or seemingly pure, water. It is certain, continues the writer, that the purest water in appearance frequently contains thousands of germs of all sorts only visible through the microscope, perhaps eggs or germs more obscure still, the development of which in the human body produces morbid affections, isolated maladies, and even epidemics. The most effective means of counteracting the dangers of pure water is by boiling, by which all pernicious germs are destroyed. The writer recommends, therefore, tea and coffee though he also says wine, and even stronger liquors, are good, as alcohol destroys these microscopic germs in water that are so dangerous to the health. The writer adds the "moral:" Distrust pure water, which is frequently haunted by a whole army of invisible gnomes that will kill you if you do not kill them.

Several gentlemen recently in business in Mexico have abandoned all their affairs there, and returned to New York. They say the hostility to Americans is steadily increasing, and makes it unprofitable to remain. There is one of these men who was running a silver mine, who says the Mexicans made no objection to the investment of money, but as soon as business became profitable, large contributions under the name of loans were exacted. All the profits of the mine were thus swallowed up, and finally the superintendent on refusing to pay was imprisoned. He was obliged to pay for his release, and several others were subjected to similar treatment. Mining and other enterprises in Central and Northern Mexico have been given up, and the two companies being organized in New York for operations in Mexico will doubtless be abandoned.

Older nations might learn something, it would seem, from the management of the colonial jail at Dunedin in New Zealand. The recent report of Mr. James Caldwell, the superintendent, shows that in that country, where the prisoners are of the worst class, the jail has been made more than self-sustaining. The inmates have been kept at work upon a variety of municipal and government improvements, each gang being under the charge of a skilled workman, a sufficient number of whom the superintendent has no trouble in finding among the prisoners. The fiscal result of the year was that the total earnings of the jail were $42,000; the total expenditures, $34,000; leaving a balance of $8,000 to the credit of the management.

A Berlin letter says the only power which has declined to enter into arrangements with the German government concerning the election of a new Pope is France. In reply to the overtures made, M. Thiers simply declared that he had no reason to believe that the next conclave would not be held in due form. This answer is the most significant, it being well known at Berlin that the French government have been endeavoring for some time past to secure the succession to the triple crown for the French Cardinal. Already they have so far succeeded in this as to induce a number of Cardinals to entertain a plan that the conclave should withdraw to French soil and proceed with the election in the city of Pau, close to the Spanish frontier. The correspondent adds: The election of the next Pope will be a political event of immense consequence, and perhaps may give rise to a fresh grouping of the powers.

ANOTHER WESTERN WONDER.

A Fossil Palm Tree in Colorado—How Old is the World?

The following is from the Denver City News: Twenty-one miles south of Denver lie the remains of a palm tree preserved in stone. It is on the hillside, looking down upon Cherry creek, and a hundred feet or more above the level of the valley of that stream. The soil is similar to that of most of the upland plain in Colorado, and covered at present with a thick crop of grass and weeds. Bunches of currant bushes, laden with fruit, cluster about the wooden rocks, and above, to the top of the ridge and along its crest, are scrubby young pines and a few large trees. At the foot of the hill, three hundred yards to the westward, passes the old stage road from Denver to Santa Fe. The traveler, looking up, could see a ledge or mass of rough looking rocks rising ten or twelve feet above the surface of the ground and about forty feet in length. Camp fires have been built against it and campers have doubtless sought shelter from storm or sun under its projecting front, little dreaming that they reclined in the shadow of a palm tree. The pupils of a school house near by have played about it many a day. Last winter a hunter for curious specimens stumbled upon it and guessed its true character. Specimens were brought to Denver, and pronounced by the best authorities petrified palm wood. But the mass was reported so large that the story seemed incredible.

A careful examination reveals the following facts: The monster tree evidently grew where it lies, and there has been very little change in the surface of the ground at that point since its fall. Its fall was toward the north and across a narrow tongue or spur of the hill, near the crest, on the south side of which it stood. The unevenness of the ground caused the part of the trunk now visible to break in two pieces. The first, or butt section, is thirty-nine feet long, and it has apparently rolled about half over, down the hill. In the heart was either a hollow or a mass of decayed wood, from four to six feet in diameter. The upper side of the log has been broken up by the action of the elements and frost, destroying between one-third and one-half its circumference, and the fragments lie scattered about in huge blocks. The more than half that remains intact is a huge trough; the surface of the earth is even with its brim on the up-hill side and ten feet below it on the down-hill side. As before stated, this section is thirty-nine feet long. As near as can be determined without excavating the adjacent earth, the diameter of the tree at its base is twenty-two feet. Midway of its length, or twenty feet from the base, it is fifteen feet.

The second section is twenty-one feet long, and evidently lies where it fell. Striking square across the crest of the ridge, the immense weight almost buried it in the earth. Its outlines are hard to determine without digging, but at mid-length, or fifty feet from the stump, it is certainly nine feet in diameter. The two sections, as described, measure just sixty feet in length. Above that point the body of the tree fell into a gulch, which has been since nearly filled up by the wash from the hills above. Digging would doubtless reveal much more of the trunk.

And all this immense mass of wood has turned to stone, hard and flinty as porphyry. Some of it looks like agate, finely veined and delicately tinted. Other with opaline luster; some as white as the driven snow, or with the polished surface of chalcedony. Portions of the trunk must have been rotten, for its stony remains are honeycombed and the cavities filled with delicate crystals that sparkle in the sunlight like real diamonds. Breaking into the knots with heavy blows of the sledge hammer reveals miniature caves and grottoes glittering with stalactites and stalagmites of real crystal. Specimens of the bark can be chipped off, looking as natural, doubtless, as when its own green leaves waved in the breeze and Darwin's inchoate man gamboled among their giant stems.

It is useless to speculate upon the time when that giant of the forest flourished; of the hundreds of thousands of years during which a torrid sun daily kissed its shining leaves; of its fall and immersion in the silicious bath that changed its every fibre to flint. It is history in stone, telling of changes of the condition and climate of this part of the world that may well make one shiver if he expects to stop here fifty or a hundred thousand years longer. Meantime it can supply material for the walls of a court house, window sills and caps for all of Denver, or center table tops for the Western States. It is the very biggest thing—in stone—and among trees it takes the palm. Call at the News office, or at Rev. Hamilton's, and see specimens.

PERSONAL.

Horace Greeley is a staunch Universalist, but since the close of the North Carolina campaign he is said to be firmly convinced that President Grant has made his calling and election sure.

A few years ago a great admirer of Senator Sumner named his first son for him. The father and Senator met soon afterward, when the former told the latter what he had done. The Senator remarked that that "step was not wise; it was not best to give the name of a living person to another, because so many prominent men fell from their high estate and their reputation became tarnished before their public career was ended." Who will say he was not right?

General Sherman is coming back next month. We may be sure his incisive glance has discovered the good and evil in European military systems, and that he will be ready to propose much that is valuable for our own army. Small as our military force now is, it is the frame-work or cadre, which may be expanded into a colossal force if ever it should be again required. Such a visit as that of Sherman will tend to make the nucleus perfect.

The condition of Mr. Chase's health is evidently not such as to encourage his friends. He is now only sixty-four years of age, and has lived a life of unusual moderation in all respects; but, if recent advices are to be depended on, he is not likely to long escape the physical infirmities that have for some time been closely besetting him.

It seems somewhat singular that a young American of ability and with the most favorable social surroundings should not only take up his residence in Canada, but go actively into Canadian politics. Yet an emigrant of just this character has been elected to the Provincial Parliament—Mr. Anson L. P. Dodge, a member of one of the wealthiest and most respected families of New York. That an American should so far overcome provincial prejudices as to receive such an honor is a rather remarkable fact.

Bierstadt, the artist, has just returned from the Yosemite Valley with his portfolio filled with new and beautiful studies of the stupendous scenery of that remarkable region.

News has been received from Senator Thos. F. Bayard, who is now in Germany, which leaves no doubt of his speedy and complete recovery from his recent illness, brought on by overwork during the last session of Congress. Senator Bayard may be expected back early in October.

Sir George Cartier, Minister of Militia and Defense, of Canada, commenced life in the humblest manner, having received an education through the exertions of his poor mother, who, it is said, sold apples for a living.

Professor Tyndall has engaged passage for New York, and may be expected in October. He is to remain in this country six or seven months, lecturing in the principal cities, six lectures and a two weeks' stay being promised for the metropolis. Professor Henry, of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, will entertain the distinguished guest during his visit.

On Tuesday last was celebrated at Saratoga the auspicious entrance of the scion of the house of Morrissey (founded by John Morrissey, late M. C.) upon his eighteenth year. The young folks played croquet, and otherwise gamboled on the green (his father keeps a faro-hall); then the scion received the congratulations of his friends, and several fine presents, among which was a gold chain once owned by Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

A Cheerful Neighbor for Young Widows.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

A friend in the country has an observatory on the top of his fine, elevated mansion, in which he has placed a telescope of power enough to command a very extended view, and here in this perch after dinner he smokes his cigar and enjoys the panorama. Some time since he thoughtlessly directed the tube toward the house of a delightful young widow, living some miles away in the valley below, and was pleased to see her sitting on her door-step seemingly unemployed. Taking out his watch, he was about to take a mental memorandum of what he saw and tell her of it when they met next, but the pleasant picture was so changed in a moment that he concluded to say nothing about it for the present. Another friend, of the sterner sex, just then drove up, jumped from his carriage, threw his arms where they were most wanted, and kissed her. The engagement was not long after announced, but great caution is commendable in telescopic neighborhoods.

Kissed and Died.

In speaking of the recent flood, which was so disastrous in several sections of Virginia, the Lynchburg papers record the following sad event: A mother and several little children were making their escape from a narrow neck of land, which lies between the river James and the canal, when they were amazed to find that the bridge was already gone and that their only hope was to cling on to an abutment of the bridge until the angry waves should subside. But as they stood there clinging to the abutment the waters continued to rise higher and higher, while in the deep darkness they could hear the crashing of trees amid the thunders of bridge timbers that were wildly dashing all around them. They had been in this condition for some time when the little girl felt that her strength was gone, and with a wild shriek of terror she exclaimed: "Kiss me, mother, for I can't hold on any longer!" And with the warm pressure of that mother's lips upon her cheek, she was swept away and was seen no more.

It is stated, and the statement may be true, that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has a contract with the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Company, by which it secures the use of that road for its cars on satisfactory terms for a term of years. As Baltimore has given the Baltimore and Ohio Company notice that it will not be permitted to run its cars through the city beyond a certain period, flats are being constructed upon which to transport them from Locust Point across an arm of the bay in front of the city. The distance is short, and it is thought will not involve any greater delay than the present system of pulling the cars through the city by horse power.

What We Need When Debilitated.

Appetite and digestion languish at this season. At the very time when the body most needs renovation and support, the stomach, its commissariat department, is apt to prove delinquent. Under such circumstances the necessity for a wholesome stimulant, tonic and corrective is self-evident, and consequently the demand for that peerless combination of the three required elements, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is never more urgent than at midsummer.

It is true that a few medical bigots—fossils "left over" from the dark ages—recommend violent purgation and water gruel as a cure for indigestion and its accompanying ills; but they make few proselytes. The majority of the community are sane, and sane people are aware that a pure and powerful vegetable tonic with alterative properties, like Hostetter's Bitters, is the only cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, nervousness and the "consequential damages" they inflict.

The human intellect, unless hopelessly diseased or egregiously humbugged, declines to astonish the weakened human stomach with fierce cathartics that, rushing like an avalanche through the intestines, threaten to take the inner membrane with them. To use a significant catch-phrase the knock-down-and-drag-out methods of treatment are "played out."

It is clearly understood that a medicated stimulant is essential to the renovation of an exhausted frame and that you cannot strengthen man or woman by dosing them with prostrating preparations. This is an era of common sense, and common sense approves of Hostetter's Bitters as the best article extant for invigorating, regulating and purifying the system and defending it against poison in the air we breathe, or the water we drink.

This Company was organized for the purpose of importing and distributing Teas and Coffees for one small profit, and it was started with a capital amply sufficient (half a million of dollars) to carry into effect, in a thorough and complete manner, our well matured plans. Added to this large capital, we have many years experience in importing, buying, testing, and selling Teas to all sections of the country. And, as we have business connections with all the principal ports in China and Japan, thus receiving our goods direct from place of growth, our customers are saved from all intermediate profits.
All our Teas are selected with reference to our trade, and graded to established standards, so that all orders can be duplicated as often as desired, with the certainty that the same flavors and qualities will be sent, and at the lowest prices at which the goods can be imported and sold.
We conduct our business upon the true commercial principles of ONE PRICE—ONE SMALL PROFIT—and buy and sell for CASH ONLY.
We think our Thea Nectar is the best Tea in the market for general use, and for the quality it certainly is the cheapest. Thea Nectar is the pure black Tea, with the Green Tea flavor. Wherever it has been introduced it gives the fullest satisfaction.
Our business title we have copyrighted as a Trade Mark, under the laws of the United States, and cannot allow any one to use it or infringe upon it.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

FRIDAY EVENING, August 9, 1872.

The continued good weather, although depressing on the unfortunates that are unable to get away from town, is giving the farming community just such weather as they require to get their crops safely harvested.

—Some weeks ago in a full review of the future of the grain market, immediately following the break in the Chicago "corner," we predicted an advanced rate for all the cereals. The present quotations of old wheat are at figures even higher than we had anticipated, while rates at Chicago and Milwaukee are fully up to Eastern prices, when the difference of transportation is taken into consideration.

Very much of the wheat throughout the region lately affected by the rains is in bad condition. The Northwest yield will not be up to that of last year, and the Tennessee crop, which at first promised to be unusually large has been seriously deteriorated by the rain. While there may be a slight decline in prices when the whole crop is ready for the market, it will be but slight, and the market will come up again to present figures as soon as it has felt the full weight of the new crop and has adjusted itself to the load.

—The wool clip has moved very sluggishly. On account of high prices, manufacturers are only buying as their necessities compel them, having a firm belief in a lower range of prices, especially on grades of higher value. Farmers, equally certain of a sustained market if not an advanced one, are selling only as they need money to meet maturing obligations.

—Messrs. Ira B. McVay & Co. report the following quotations of Government bonds in New York to-day, as furnished them by Jay Cooke & Co., their correspondents:

	Morning.	Noon.	Evening.

—James T. Brady & Co., corner of Fourth avenue and Wood street, quote United States securities in New York to-day as follows:

Gold	115⅜

—The balance against the United States, in our commercial dealings with foreign countries, appears to be $65,000,000 for the first nine months of the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1872, according to the report of the Bureau of Statistics. The figures of the shipping trade are even more unsatisfactory. In 1861 the imports and exports of the United States were $530,569,412, and two-thirds of this was in American vessels. Last year the total trade was $991,857,269, and the value of freight in American vessels was a little over one third. Thus, foreigners are not only supplying us with merchandise, but it is carried almost exclusively in foreign vessels, while the gold of the great European financial centers is gradually absorbing all the railroad and other great enterprises in the country. Of course, there must be an end of this thing some time, otherwise England and Germany may own the United States by virtue of the power of a first class mortgage.

—Holders of Missouri State Bonds will feel interested in the following interesting and satisfactory statement of the assessment returns of that State for the year 1872, which shows that the State has 36,099,505 acres of land, which are valued at $212,594,426, and with her cities, towns, and the valuable buildings in the farming districts, shows an aggregate real estate valuation of $437,533,142. The total returns of personal property amount to $140,622,360, which, added to the wealth in real estate and stock, makes the total taxable wealth of the State $568,155,602. This is nearly double the valuation of 1860. In the same time the population has increased from 1,182,012 to 1,721,295, according to the last census.

GROCERIES.—Trade continues very active considering the fact that we are in the midst of the dog days and that merchants generally are letting their stocks run down, preparatory to the opening up of fall trade. The fine weather of the past ten days has enabled the farmers to get their oats and hay up in the very best condition, and the crop of the former is larger than for many years. The hay crop is fully an average one. The yield of wheat is not so large as that of last year, but the quantity where it was not affected by the long continued wet weather, is very fine. This immediate locality will have to look to other more favored sections for the larger part of their supply. If the farmers of Western Pennsylvania would follow the example of their Ohio neighbors in sowing their fall grain, and read more of what H. G. or some "other man" knows about farming, and then act upon it, there would be less occasion for murmering at Providence for the failure of their crops. As faithful reporters of the growth of the commercial interests of our city, we feel in duty bound to speak of the cracker trade, which from small beginnings has grown into such vast proportions that no city in the Union of the size of our own manufactures such quality and varieties. We attach this gratifying success as much to the quality of the goods as to the enterprise of the manufacturers. Sugars remain very firm, and as the fresh crop in New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland is a large one, we do not anticipate any lower figures for the next six months to come. Coffees are gradually stepping up in price and holders universally predict higher figures; but as a morning contemporary gives expression to some bearish movement founded neither upon fact or good reason, we herewith insert the remarks of one of the best commercial papers in the United States upon the article in question. We refer to the Shipping and Commercial List, and New York Price Current. We quote from the issue of the 7th inst.:

Coffee—There is a better inquiry for Brazil from the trade, who, finding a pretty good outlet for their stock, are in the market to a pretty fair extent, but the sales effected show a reduction of one-quarter of a cent ℔ pound on all except prime quality, and we reduce our quotations accordingly. These operations have brought the available stock to a low figure, only about 20 to 25 ℔ cent of the here being offered at all at present market rates, the remainder being held for a higher range of prices. The market, therefore, may be considered as closing with decidedly more firmness at our revised quotations, especially as the regular inquiry from the interior which has now set in may be expected to continue for some months to come, the country being, as a rule, poorly supplied. Each succeeding Rio telegram seems to be more and more favorable to holders than others, and the last, given below, inspires much confidence to holders in the future of our market, and it would be difficult perhaps to buy any great extent at our present valuations.

Below are the figures of what sales are made at in this market:

Coffee—Fancy Rio coffee 25, strictly prime 24c; prime 24c; good 22¾c; fair 21¾c; roasted in one pound papers 26c.

Refined Sugars—Granulated sugar 13c; Powdered sugar 13¾c; A do 12c; B do 11¾c; extra C 11¾c; Chesapeake extra C 11¾a11¾c.

Syrups—Union syrup 75c; H & E fancy 65c; H & E extra 60c; H & E No 1 55c.

Rice—Carolina, choice, 9¾c; Rangoon, 8c.

Spices—Grain pepper, 23c; allspice 16; Cassia 50c; nutmegs $1 25.

EGGS—We are reported sales strictly good at 14¾a15¾c ℔ doz.

EGGS—Unchanged at 14a15c per dozen for strictly fresh.

FLOUR—Receipts are falling off, being only 1,281 bbls. The market for new and spring wheat brands is strong, but excited, while old wheat brands are held steady at quotations. The following are the ruling figures at which sales are made by stores and mills: Old wheat flour from stores at $9 00 per barrel, whilst medium grades command $8 50a8 75. Western springs are dull: sales at $7 50a8 00. Mill rates: National, white wheat, $9 90; Pan Handle Southern amber, $9 20; Morning Glory, red winter, $9.

GRAIN—The following are the receipts of wheat, oats and corn since our last:

Wheat sacks	743	Oats	2,377
Corn sacks	680

We find it rather difficult to give correct quotations of the grain market, nor do we feel disposed to speculate upon its future. The following are the ruling rates at which sales are made by stores and track in elevator. Red winter $1 55a1 90; new red $1 75a1 80. Corn—yellow, shelled, 58a59c; mixed, 56a57c; free in elevator 60c. Rye—Market dull at 85a90c. Barley nominal.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, SATURDAY, August 10, 1872.

We quote nominally. Crude, Parker's, $3 45 ℔ barrel. For prices at other points in the oil region see dispatches.

REFINED.

The market is firmer. Buyers were more disposed to operate. The current rates were: For Eastern delivery, spot 22c; August 22¾c; September 22¾c; October 23c.

OIL BARRELS.

IRON MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

August 8.—Scotch pig iron has been in moderate request at fully former prices. Sales 200 tons Eglinton to arrive at $52, 100 tons Glengarnock $55, 100 tons Langloan at $53, and about 500 tons mixed Nos. including Eglinton, at $52. American iron very scarce and firm. We note a sale of 50 tons Allentown, No. 1, at $55, at Hoboken. We quote No. 1 $53a55, No. 2 $50a52, and gray forge $48a49. Rails in moderate demand and firm at $73a74, gold, for new English, and $85a86, currency, for American at Pennsylvania Mills. Sales 200 tons English on private terms. Old rails quiet but firm at $53a54. Sales 200 tons on private terms. Scrap continues dull and prices weak. About 75 tons sold ex-ship at $49, generally held at $54a55 from yard and $48a50 from wharf. Refined bar firm but not quotably higher.—Daily Bulletin.

CLEVELAND.

August 7.—Pig—We note a change to higher figures and an increased firmness in the market, denoting an inevitable tendency toward still higher prices. One thousand tons gray forge are reported to have been sold in Youngstown at $53. The Cleveland market is about as follows: We quote Scotch pig (90 days) $58a60; Tuscarawas (soft foundry) $56; Massillon $56; Lake Superior charcoal, No. 1 $58; do No 2 $57; do Nos 3, 4 and 5 $58a60; Anthracite foundry No. 1 $56; Lake Superior (bituminous coal) No. 1 $56a57; do No. 2 $55; Salisbury (for car wheels) Nos. 3 and 4 $65; Hanging Rock $58; forge $54; Missouri charcoal $58.

IRONTON.

August 8.—The iron market here is firm, and holders are expecting a further advance. We quote mill at $50a52. Foundry $52a54. Cold blast car wheel, $62a65.

The mills are running on a full line of orders at remunerative prices.

The Belfont mill has been idle several days and will remain so while their new battery of five boilers is put in, the roof renewed in places, and other repairs made. They stopped with a full stock of nails on hand.—Journal.

The Texas Cattle Trade.

The St. Louis Democrat has the following from Ellsworth, Kansas: The anticipations in regard to the Texas cattle trade at this point are fully realized. Up to this date over two hundred thousand head of fresh cattle have been driven to this neighborhood. In addition, about twenty-five thousand have been driven to the neighborhood of Brookville, twenty-three miles east. There are also in the region near and west of Ellsworth from twenty to forty thousand head of cattle, which were kept over winter and are now in fine condition. Part of the immense herds driven in are sold to go westward to Colorado, Utah, Montana, &c., and part will be kept in the country as permanent stock. The shipments on the Kansas and Pacific Railway will depend somewhat on the demand for beef as well as stock cattle, but are likely to reach at least 200,000 head, or 40,000 more than last year. Owing to the fine grass this season cattle are generally in better condition than usual, but the prices are not high, and opportunities are very favorable for buyers, as many of the holders have had severe losses in the last two years. Prices range about as follows: Steers four years old and upward, $18a23; three year olds, $14a18; cows $11a13; two year olds, $9a11; yearlings, $5 50a7; calves scarce, but selling at about $5.

The Wheat Crop in Tennessee.

Says the Chattanooga Times: After full time for investigating the extent of the losses sustained by the farmers of this section in the destruction of their wheat by the late rains, it would appear that the rain has neither been so destructive nor so widespread as at first reported.

Our Middle Tennessee exchanges, in which we glean information, speak cheerfully of the situation in their section. In lower East Tenessee the damage has been less widespread than at first feared. In the counties of Hamilton, Marion, Sequatchie, Bledsoe and Rhea the loss has been severe. These counties will probably not save more than half the grain they had in shock—about two thirds of their entire crop—when the rain commenced. This will hardly be good merchantable wheat. So we may safely set it down that these counties will save little more than two-thirds average crop from this year's magnificent yield.

In North Georgia the counties of Walker, Dade and Cherokee have suffered considerably from sprouting and moldering in the stack, but lightly as compared with the Tennessee counties noticed above.

Louisville Market.

LOUISVILLE, August 9.—Tobacco active for all grades; sales 93 hhds. Cotton firm at 20c.

Cattle.

The run of cattle for sale here has been fair since our last report, while it has been heavy of through stock. The market closes dull and drooping. A heavy run during the middle of the week and a diminished demand caused a bad feeling. In many instances cattle sold for about the same prices they cost in the west, owners losing freight and expenses. To-day there is scarcely anything doing, and several loads remain in the yards unsold. Following are the rates current, by which it will be seen good cattle are not a great deal lower, while common are off from ¼c to ½c: Extra, 1,400 to 1,500 ℔s steers, $6 75 to $6 90; prime 1,300 ℔s steers, $6 25 to $6 50; fair 1,200 ℔s steers, $5 50 to $6 00; good 1,100 ℔s steers, $5 25 to $5 50; fair 1,000 ℔s steers, $4 75 to $5 25; common, all weights, $3 50 to $4 50; cows, heifers, &c., $3 50 to $4 50; bulls, $2 50 to $3 25; stockers, $3 50 to $4 00.

Hogs.

The run of hogs for sale at this point has been light since our last report. Yesterday the feeling was better and prices advanced fully 10c per hundred pounds, the market closing in the evening moderately fair. To-day trade is not quite so active, though yesterday's figures are still maintained. Following are the prices at which the different kinds and grades are selling: Extra Philadelphia $5 10 to $5 25; prime Philadelphia $5 00; good Yorkers $4 65 to 4 65; common $4 70.

Sheep.

The run of sheep yesterday and to-day has been heavy. They consist however of Jersey ewes and are not intended for sale at this point. Trade is dull and weak, and but little stock is changing hands. The market closes dull at the following prices: Extra, 90 ℔s sheep, $5 75; prime, 80 to 85 ℔s sheep, $5 35 to $5 50; good, 80 ℔s sheep, $5 00 to $5 25; fair 75 ℔s sheep, $4 25 to $4 75; common, $3 00 to $4 00.

NEW YORK, August 9—P. M.

MONEY.

Money opened easy at 1½ to 2 per cent. on call, closing at 1½ to 2. Time loans active and commercial paper dull. The city banks are buying no paper, preferring to lend balances on call.

GOLD.

Gold was steady, with all sales at 115⅛a115⅜, closing at 115⅛a115⅜. Loans were made at from 2 to 5 per cent. for carrying to flat. Clearings $59,000,000. Treasury disbursements $156,000.

GOVERNMENTS.

Governments quiet and steady, without speculative features. Five-twenties of 1867 are so scarce that money can be obtained on them until the middle of January for 3 to 3½ per cent.

THE STOCK MARKET.

In stocks there has been an active business in Western Union, Pacific Mail, Erie, New York Central, Lake Shore, Union Pacific, Indiana Central and Northwest. Other shares were dull, and the market opened heavy and prices fell ¼ to 1 per cent. throughout the list. Before the second Board there was a slight upward reaction, and a recovery of ¼ to ¾ per cent. from the lowest figures. Subsequently the market became quiet and steady, but finally closed weak.

Navigation to the lower ports continues suspended. There has been no arrivals or departures for several days.

TRADE on the slack water goes on as usual. The packets arrive and depart on time.

THE steamer Messenger, Captain Abrams, was announced to leave St. Louis for this port on Thursday.

THE dredge boat built at New Orleans for Jefferson, Texas, has laid idle at the latter place for the last eighteen months.

WILLIE CORBETT, son of Captain I. N. Corbett, formerly clerk on the A. Baker, is now running the postoffice at Friar's Point, Mississippi.

THE wreck of the burnt Champion is showing itself opposite the Pomeroy Packet Company's wharfboat. It is lying directly in the channel.

THE St. James and Bostona have reduced the fare from Maysville from $2 25 to $1 25, and from Ripley and Dover to $1, in consequence of rivalry in trade.

The local Inspectors on the Upper Mississippi are unusually active in going through the raft tugs employed on that stream, in consequence of the two recent explosions.

THE clerk of the John T. Moore says the machinery of that steamer is all right, and that the Bossier was chartered on account of the low water in Red river.

THE independent packet West Virginia, Captain Donaldson, takes her departure this day at 4 P. M., for Brownsville and Geneva. For further information apply to Capt. Patterson on the wharfboat.

A LOUISVILLE dispatch says: The injunction case of the canal company was argued to-day. It is contemplated to compromise and close the canal in ten days, enabling the return of coal tugs from the South.

THE Nashville Union says: "We learn that upon the completion of the North and South Road an effort will be made to establish a line of packets between this city and St. Louis, and connecting at this point with the Nashville and Decatur Railroad."

SAVANNAH boasts a diver, named J. W. Winn, who scorns the use of armor, but goes to the bottom of the water in an almost nude state, and fastens upon or chains to crates of crockery, barrels of iron nuts, cutlasses, etc., and gets them ready to be hoisted to terra firma.

THE certificate of the Ohio and Cincinnati Packet Company was left at the Recorder's office on Thursday. Capital stock $9,000, divided into shares of $50 each. David Gibson, Henry Grotenkemper, Edwin Stevens, G. Holterhoff and C. F. McLean are the incorporators.

THE United States mail packets on the slackwater leave daily at 8 A. M. and 5 P. M. These boats are sidewheelers, and were built expressly for the trade, and are in charge of careful and attentive officers. For further information call on Captain A. S. Carlisle on the wharfboat.

THE Esperanza and Key West have laid up at Fort Sully. The E. H. Durfee was to leave Sioux City yesterday for this port. The Mary McDonald is now on her last trip to the crossings, and will proceed on her arrival at Sioux City. They both will ply in Southern waters during the rest of the season.

THURSDAY'S Cincinnati Gazette says: "The burning of Storey's saw mill Tuesday morning caused the destruction of the friction machinery (with the engines) that were in the Andy Baum, and which were to have been placed in the new boat that he contemplated building. The Andy Baum, lying near the mill, would have been burned had it not been for a sudden change of the wind."

THE Milwaukee was detained at Dubuque whilst on her downward trip, by Inspector Gordon, for several hours. The Inspector insisted that he should inspect her boilers. The Captain desired it done at the end of her trip. The Inspector was firm, and the boat had to give in. After the test was had, which was perfectly satisfactory, the boat proceeded on her trip. There is great irregularity by the steam packets on the upper Mississippi, caused by low water.

THURSDAY'S Cincinnati Enquirer says: Captain John A. Williamson has sold the Anna to Peter Eichels and others. Terms private. She will be continued in the Memphis trade during the low water, and is being fixed up preparatory to entering some packet trade on the river.

The Alice Brown was unable to get over Four Mile, and returned with her tow and laid up at the mouth of Mill creek.

The Valid started for Pittsburgh yesterday with a tow of empty barges in charge of her new owners.

A PAPER printed at Florence, Alabama, says: We expect within the next five years to make the trip by steamboat from Paducah to Knoxville. What a grand river the Tennessee will be when navigation is unobstructed from its mouth to Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville! More than a thousand miles of river, flowing through the rich and fertile valleys of East Tennessee and North Alabama, washing the base of the mountains of coal and iron, girded by magnificent bluffs and picturesque hills, and there rise in solemn grandeur and invite commerce.

AN ordinance has been introduced in the New Orleans City Councils authorizing the St. Louis and New Orleans Packet Company to construct two wharves similar to that at the head of Eighth street, under the specifications and directions of the Surveyor of the city of New Orleans; and when these wharves are completed, the said company shall be reimbursed by the city of New Orleans in warrants receivable for taxes, upon presentation of bills approved by the City Surveyor, the total cost of the wharves not to exceed $6,000; and providing, further, that the packet company shall pay into the city treasury annually $500, to keep the wharves in repair, &c.

THE Memphis Avalanche says: The tow boat Charles Brown came in yesterday from above with twenty-five barges containing 300,000 bushels of coal for this market. The Dictator brought in 65,000 bushels Sunday, also for this market. The following is a list of coal tows that have arrived and passed South since the first inst., when the advance of the feet which came down on the recent rise first made its appearance:

August 1, Charles McDonald, 250,000 bushels.
August 1, Smoky City, 330,000 bushels.
August 3, Grand Lake No. 2, 300,000 bushels.
August 3, John A. Wood, 400,000 bushels.
August 3, Dictator, 65,000 bushels.
August 3, Mary Ann, 230,000 bushels.
August 4, Grand Lake No. 1, 250,000 bushels.
August 4, J. H. Bigley, 400,000 bushels.
August 4, A. J. Baker, 250,000 bushels.
August 5, Sharp McDonald, 425,000 bushels.
August 5, Charles Brown, 300,000 bushels.

The above list shows a total of 3,200,000 bushels that have arrived and passed South on the recent rise. In addition to the above the Fearless, Ajax and Falls Pilot are yet to come, and the Wm. Cowan has gone up to St. Louis with a tow of Pittsburgh coal for the gas works.

SHERWOOD'S

PATENT

Bottle Filling Apparatus,

Fills 100 Gross Per Day, of any size Bottle and no Waste.

Saves Time, Labor, Money.

The principle upon which this "AUTOMATIC BOTTLE FILLER" is constructed is both simple and effectual. The Reservoir of the large size is two feet long, eight inches wide and eight inches deep, of Iron, lined with Porcelain, tightly covered against dust and evaporation. A valve set in the bottom of the Reservoir is operated by a float, which by a thumb screw attached, may be set at any height desired, so as to admit into the reservoir any exact and permanent level of liquid to correspond with the height to which it is desired to fill the bottle. The syphons have an outlet at the discharge end which is opened and shut by a sheath, packing and spiral spring, by the act of putting on and taking off the bottle; by this means the streams in the syphons are held perfectly. This machine regulates everything, and only requires that the bottles shall be put on and taken off as rapidly as they can be handled by the operator, to insure the most wonderful amount of work. A few hours practice will give great dexterity, and renders the performance more an amusement than labor. This truly wonderful machine can be seen by calling upon the Agents,

ANOTHER SCARE.

Mere Incendiarism at Steubenville—Hotel Stables Burned.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

STEUBENVILLE, O., August 9, 1872.

About nine o'clock a fire broke out in the stables in the rear of the United States House, which for a time threatened to be very destructive. It spread rapidly to barns and adjoining buildings, and the greatest excitement prevailed. At this writing the firemen seem to have the fire well in hand, and will probably soon succeed in subduing it. There is no doubt but the parties who were engaged in firing buildings on the night of the 7th were engaged in this work. If they are caught their funeral will be announced by telegraph. No estimate of the loss has been made yet, but it probably will not be very great, as the buildings burned are not very important.

NORTH CAROLINA ELECTION.

Caldwell's Majority 1,200 to 1,500—Democrats Insist on Contesting.

RALEIGH, August 9.—The city is quiet. Caldwell's majority will be about 1,200 or 1,500. All the official returns are not yet in. The Democrats demand that the matter be contested before the Legislature, in consequence of alleged frauds in many sections.

POLITICAL.

Republican Glorification Meeting at Mansfield, Ohio.

Special Dispatch to Commercial.

MANSFIELD, O., August 9, 1872.

The Republicans held a glorification meeting here to-night over the North Carolina election. A salute of thirty-seven guns was fired, and bonfires kindled on the south side of the public park. The park itself was illuminated with Chinese lanterns. A band of music and glee club were on hand. Speeches were made by L. B. Matson, Capt. Chas. E. Douglas, candidate for Congress; Neil Lehman, Hon. John Sherman, Rev. J. E. Cheshire, and others. Mr. Sherman said the result of the election in North Carolina had surprised him. He had not been one of those who counted on success there. He had believed it was a Democratic State, and expected it to give a Democratic majority of thousands. He regarded the result as a prophecy. It was a type of coming events, when the other States shall vote next fall. He believed the favorable fortunes of the Republican party would continue until Grant and Wilson were triumphantly elected. He attributed the success in North Carolina in great part to the influence of the faithful execution of the Ku-Klux laws by the national administration; compelling peace and quiet in the State, which had, in spite of the local government, been overruled by bands of ruffians and midnight murderers. He had no doubt that very many good citizens had quietly voted for the Republican ticket as the best means of promoting law and order and conserving the best interests of the people, and hence the unlooked for success. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. A few business houses and private residences were decorated with flags during the day in honor of the occasion. It is understood the Democrats propose to rejoice to-morrow night over the result from their stand-point.

Louisiana Factions Unable to Agree—Liberal Nomination for Governor.

NEW ORLEANS, August 9.—The Democratic and Reform committees proposed that the Liberals ratify their nomination for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General, and that all other nominations for offices on the ticket, State, Congressional and Electoral, be made by the Liberals. This, as a final offer of compromise, was refused, and the Liberal Convention nominated D. B. Henn for Governor and adjourned till to-morrow. In the Pinchback Convention there was nothing important transpired.

Republican Jubilation Over North Carolina.

ST. LOUIS, August 9.—The Republicans fired one hundred guns this evening in honor of the victory in North Carolina, and to-night are holding a meeting at the temple, the headquarters of the Missouri club, at which several gentlemen of local prominence have spoken.

TOLEDO, OHIO, August 9.—An enthusiastic mass meeting was held here to-night in acknowledgement of the Republican victory in North Carolina. Salutes were fired from both sides of Maumee river, brass bands paraded the streets and speeches were made by prominent Republicans.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN, August 9.—The Republicans here took their turn celebrating the result of the North Carolina election, and did it enthusiastically with cannon firing and speeches.

The Election in Montana Doubtful—First Gentile Victory in Utah.

SALT LAKE, August 9.—The Journal has a dispatch this evening from Montana which states that McGinnis, Democrat, is seventy-five ahead. The returns are not all in yet. The contest has been a hard fought one. The Republicans are still hopeful for Clagett. Beaver county, in the southern section of the Territory, gives sixty majority for Maxwell for delegate to Congress. This is the first county ever carried by the Gentiles in Utah.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., August 9.—One of the largest meetings ever held here assembled last night to celebrate the Republican victory in North Carolina. There was a procession with banners, and firing of cannon. Several thousand people turned out. Speeches were made by a number of prominent gentlemen.

Man and Wife Fatally Burned by a Carbon Oil Explosion.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

CANNONSBURG, PA., August 9, 1872.

About five o'clock this morning Mr. Frank Monsa and his wife attempted to kindle their fire with carbon oil, when it suddenly ignited, exploding the can and throwing the burning fluid over both of them, burning them so severely that Mrs. Monsa died after three hours of intense suffering. Mr. Monsa is still living, but no hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Death at the Gaming Table.

MEMPHIS, August 9.—About two o'clock this afternoon, Spike Mallan, a well known saloon keeper, was shot and instantly killed in Bachman's beer saloon, by Cori Walters, game dealer. While Walters with a party were playing cards in a back room, Mallan walked in and playfully tapped Walters on the cheek and turned to walk out. Walters grabbed a large Derringer pistol from under the table, and running to the door fired. The ball struck Mallan in the right arm and passed on to the heart. Walters was arrested.

Desperado Lynched.

MEMPHIS, TENN., August 9.—A negro named John Mitchell, confined in jail at Covington, Tennessee, for attempting to outrage a young lady and nearly killing her in the attempt, was taken from jail last night by a party of citizens, who overpowered the jailer after a desperate resistance, and shot Mitchell. The prisoner was a desperate character, having killed two men within the past year, and succeeded in eluding the officers until this last outrage.

NEWS SUMMARY.

BY TELEGRAPH.

A shooting tournament, under the auspices of the Kenicott shooting club, commences at Chicago on Tuesday next, and continues four days. Prizes of an aggregate value of $2,000, principally in cash, are offered. An offer is made to match Bogodeaux and Kleinman, well known Illinois shots, against any two men in America, to shoot one hundred single birds, to rise from the ground or plunge traps, for $500 to $1,000 a side, the match to occur the next day after the close of the tournament.

Justice Owen Dougherty, an old and well known citizen of Chicago, died yesterday.

Carl Schurz is announced to deliver a speech in Chicago to-night in German.

Christopher Johnson fell into the river at Chicago yesterday, and was drowned.

It is rumored that the Union Pacific Railroad Company is negotiating for the control of the Utah Southern, with the intention to push the work to the extreme southern part of Utah.

ALARM AT GERMAN EMIGRATION.

The Flow to the United States to be Stopped if Possible.

Next to the expulsion of the Jesuits, the subject most discussed in Germany just now is the necessity of reducing the flow of emigration to the United States. The vast increase of emigration this year seems to have awakened the government to a realization of its loss, and the cue is given to the semi-official and conservative press to raise a cry of alarm. The Cross Gazette fills its columns with doleful accounts from various districts where villages have been completely reduced by the American fever, and asks why does not the State levy an emigration tax. "Let there be a tax of fifty thalers per head for every adult."

In similar strains a large number of journals are daily uttering their grief over the prevailing emigration fever, and Bismarck's organ joins in the complaint, though it lays the fault on emigration agents, who, it says, allures credulous victims by fraud and deception, and brings woe and ruin on families and entire communities. It particularly points the finger of scorn at a certain agent, William L. Rowland, who is a man of attractive exterior and engaging manners, and came from the United States with a sort of power of attorney to engage emigrants for unsettled districts. "Look out for him," says the Norddeutsche Zeitung; "he is not a licensed agent of Germany, and should be denounced by all well disposed parties whom he approaches with his deceptive offers."

The Vossische Zeitung reports that orders have been given to arrest all individuals who persuade people to emigrate. All persons not supplied with papers saying they are fully entitled to emigrate; that they left no indigent family behind, and that they are not liable to military duty, shall be stopped at their own expense at the shipping port. It further cites law visiting evasion of military duty with a penalty of fifty to one thousand thalers and imprisonment of from one month to one year.

Habits of the Ostrich.

There has long existed a belief that the ostrich, contrary to the character of all other birds, is careless of her young, neglects them, and is even cruel to them. That this notion was shared by the writer of the book of Job is evident. It also prevailed a thousand years before the book of Job was written. See Lamentations, iv., 3: "Even the sea-monsters draw out the breast; they give suck to their young ones; the daughter of my people is become cruel, like the ostriches in the wilderness." It is probable that this idea respecting the cruelty of the ostrich toward its young is derived from the fact that, if a flock of ostriches be chased, and among them there be some very young birds, the latter are left behind by their parents, and fall a prey to the hunters. But, in reality, the ostrich has no choice in the matter. The wide sandy desert affords no place of concealment in which it might hide its young. Nature has not furnished it with weapons by which it can fight for them; and, consequently, it is forced to use the only means of escape by which it can avoid sacrificing its own life, as well as the lives of the young. It does not, however, leave the young, until it has tried by all means in its power to save them. For instance, it sometimes has recourse to the maneuver with which we are so familiar in the case of the lapwing, and pretends to be wounded or lamed, in order to draw the attention of its pursuers, while its young escapes in another direction. An instance of this practice is given by Mr. Anderson, in his "Lake Ngami:" "When we had proceeded a little more than half the distance, and in a part of the plain entirely destitute of vegetation, we discovered a male and female ostrich, with a brood of young ones about the size of ordinary barn door fowls. We forthwith dismounted from our oxen and gave chase, which proved of no ordinary interest. The moment the parent birds became aware of our intention they set off at full speed, the female leading the way, and the cock, though at some little distance, bringing up the rear of the family party. It was very touching to observe the anxiety the birds evinced for the safety of their progeny. Finding that we were quickly gaining upon them, the male at once slackened his pace and diverged somewhat from his course, but, seeing that we were not to be diverted from our purpose, he again increased his speed, and, with wings drooping so as to touch the ground, he hovered round us, now in wide circles, and then decreasing the circumference until, he came almost within pistol-shot, when he abruptly threw himself on the ground, and struggled desperately to regain his legs, as it appeared, like a bird that had been badly wounded. Having previously fired at him, I really thought he was disabled, and made quickly toward him. But this was only a ruse on his part, for, on my nearer approach, he slowly rose and began to run in a different direction to that of the female, who, by this time, was considerably ahead with her charge." Nor is this a solitary instance of the care which the ostrich will take of their young. Thunberg mentions that, on one occasion, when he happened to ride near a place where an ostrich was sitting on the eggs, the bird jumped up and pursued him, evidently with the object of distracting his attention from the eggs. When he faced her, she retreated; but as soon as he turned his horse she pursued him afresh.

Heathen Dogs.

A traveler who has just returned from a trip through Egypt and the Holy Land, says that when he landed at Athens he was struck by the unhappy and impolite appearance of the dogs. The wharf was full of dogs, but not a dog wagged his tail! And up the long way of the Nile, and from Dan to Beersheba, or rather from Beersheba to Dan, as he went, although all the towns and cavavans were beset by hundreds of dogs, he never once saw a dog wag his tail.

They belonged to nobody. They cared for nobody. Wild, fierce, sad sour, hating and hated, yet they could not stay from man. They wanted human sympathy, and help of human love and teaching to make them good. But, only a little more dirty, and wild, and wretched, and thieving than the Arabs themselves, they got no help from them.

He said the caravan camped a week just outside the walls of Jerusalem. The rocky valleys were full of shaggy, yellow, wolfish dogs, that prowled around the camp all day and barked all night. If one spoke to them ever so kindly they were frightened and suspicious and ran away, not knowing what it meant.

One, more wise than the rest, or more loving, followed the travelers across the valleys and mountains of Beyrout. The ladies and gentlemen fed and coaxed him, whenever the party stopped to eat or rest. At the end of their several days' travel together, as they left him on the shore of the sea he seemed to be getting into his poor head a little of what Christianity meant—even to a dog.

MT. WASHINGTON COUNCIL.

Regular Meeting Last Night.

Last evening the members of the Council of Mt. Washington held a meeting. Messrs. Bigham, Wilbert, Rea, Boucher, Soffel and Chairman Boggs were present.

A number of bills were read and warrants ordered.

The Treasurer was authorized to pay Mr. Halpine $500 for damages sustained by the opening of Railroad street.

A resolution was passed authorizing the building of a temporary lock-up, not to cost over $100.

A petition for the partial opening of Cowan street, from Hall to Lincoln avenue, was referred to the Street Committee. Laid over.

The fact that Mr. Boucher had been elected a Councilman, and was holding his seat as such, he not being a resident of the borough for one year, as the law provides, was next discussed. No conclusion was arrived at.

Lincoln avenue was ordered to be graded.

Mr. Boucher moved that Messrs. Rea, Douglass and Bigham be appointed a committee to fix the grade of Lincoln avenue.

Mr. Soffel disputed Mr. Boucher's right to appoint a committee, much more to retain his seat as a Councilman.

After some discussion the motion was withdrawn and Council adjourned.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

Trimble's Varieties.

This evening the fall season will be inaugurated at this establishment, under the management of Messrs. Gardner and Trimble, than whom there are but few more competent to manage a variety theater successfully. Both gentlemen hvae been closely identified with the career of the Varieties for years and know exactly what kind of attractions best please the patrons of the house. The stage will be under the direction of Harry W. Williams, an old favorite in our city, and one fully competent and thoroughly posted in the duties devolving on him. The management has secured an excellent company, comprising some of the best variety artists in the country, who will appear this evening in an original and carefully prepared series of songs, dances, farces, &c., introducing everything new, fresh and attractive in the variety line.

Fire in Allegheny.

Shortly before twelve o'clock last night, flames were discovered issuing from a one-story sheet iron building, located in the yard of the outer depot of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad Company. The building was used by the company for the storage of oil. An alarm of fire was sounded from box No. 14, corner of Ohio avenue and Bidwell street, which was promptly re-ponded to by the firemen, who soon extinguished the flames. There was a considerable quantity of oil stored in the building at the time, but a number of police and workmen in the employ of the Company, succeeded in removing a large number of barrels before the fire had gained much headway. The building was not damaged to any great extent, and but few barrels of oil were destroyed. The entire loss will not exceed five hundred dollars. The origin of the fire has not been ascertained.

APPORTIONMENT.

The Committee Completes Its Work—The New City and Its Representation in Councils.

Last night the Apportionment Committee held a meeting in the Select Council chamber.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The chairman stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of apportioning the numbers of Common Council. The gentleman then read a list of the taxables in each of the wards of the consolidated city.

The resident taxables in the old city, with the member of Common Councilmen to which they will be entitled to at the next election, and which representation will continue until a new apportionment is made, are as follows:

COMMON COUNCILMEN—OLD CITY.

Wards.	Taxables.	No. M'brs.
First	748	1
Second	902	1
Third	897	1
Fourth	961	1
Fifth	1,110	1
Sixth	1,307	2
Seventh	1,002	1
Eighth	1,278	2
Ninth	1,078	1
Tenth	752	1
Eleventh	1,058	1
Twelfth	1,915	2
Thirteenth	638	1
Fourteenth	1,625	2
Fifteenth	768	1
Sixteenth	1,209	2
Seventeenth	1,275	2
Eighteenth	343	1
Nineteenth	604	1
Twentieth	598	1
Twenty-first	714	1
Twenty-second	300	1
Twenty-third	406	1
Totals	2,9875	29

The apportionment above is arrived at under the act of April 2d, 1872, which provides that the whole number of resident taxables in the old city shall be divided by forty, the quotient being the ratio for one member of Common Council. Where a ward has an excess of three-fifths of the ratio it is entitled to an additional member. The total number of resident taxables, according to the last January returns of the assessors, is 29,875. This number divided by forty gives a quotient of 746¾, the ratio necessary for one member. Three-fifths of the ratio or quotient is 448¼, which gives an additional member. The lowest number of taxables entitled to two members would be 1,195, and to three members 1,942.

THE SOUTH SIDE IN 1872–3.

The following statement shows the apportionment of members of Common Council for the South Side boroughs, for the years 1872–3:

Wards.	Taxables.	No. M'brs.
Twenty-fourth	477	1
Twenty-fifth	745	1
Twenty-sixth	1,378	3
Twenty-seventh	823	2
Twenty-eighth	913	2
Twenty-ninth	840	2
Thirtieth	757	1
Thirty-first	243	1
Thirty-second	278	1
Thirty-third	294	1
Thirty-fourth	606	1
Thirty-fifth	276	1
Thirty-sixth	405	1
Totals	7,035	18

Number of taxables necessary for one member	497 91
Lowest number giving two members	796 66
Lowest number giving three members	1,294 57
Total number of members from South Side	18
Number of members from the old city	29
Total number of members in Common Council for 1872-3	47

THE SOUTH SIDE IN 1874.

According to the Apportionment act the South Side boroughs in 1874, and until the next apportionment will be entitled to 14 members (a reduction of 4), divided as follows: 24th, 25th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32d, 33d, 34th, 35th, 36th, one member each, and the 26th ward two members.

Each election precinct in the new city will be entitled to two Select Councilmen.

All of the above papers were presented at the meeting last night, in the shape of ordinances, which were approved by the committee and recommended to Councils for adoption.

The meeting then adjourned.

Greeley Meeting.

Last night a Greeley, Brown and Buckalew meeting was held in Staley's Hall, Fifth avenue. Mr. M. J. McGann was called to preside and Mr. J. C. Duffy officiated as Secretary.

The organization completed the Chairman introduced C. C. Taylor, Esq., who addressed the meeting at length in favor of the Liberal candidates.

Alfred Kerr, Esq., was the next speaker. He dwelt on Gen. Hartranft's career as a soldier and concluded that military ability did not give civic virtue. Gen. Grant and "the ring" came in for some emphatic language which was evidently appreciated by the listeners.

The speakers were thanked and the meeting adjourned.

CITY MATTERS IN BRIEF.

THREE Republican meetings to-night.

THE Varieties theatre opens for the season this evening.

SOME of the city appropriations are high and dry already.

THE Apportionment Committee had an harmonious session last night.

THERE were twenty-two performers at the Mayor's matinee yesterday.

MR. M. L. BRYAN, of the house of N. Bazin, of Philadelphia, is in the city.

THERE will be more Select than Common Councilmen after the next city election.

MANAGER BEAMER is in New York, arranging for attractions for the Academy of Music.

MANAGER AIMS will open the Fifth Avenue Opera House for the season this night week.

A RABID dog created a sensation on Bingham street, near Fourteenth street. He was opportunely shot.

THE MAYOR sent Wm. Taylor to the work house for thirty days, yesterday, on a charge of disorderly conduct.

THERE will be a Republican meeting at the corner of Fifth avenue and Smithfield street this evening. Eminent speakers will be in attendance.

JACOB FETSON threatened to kill his wife yesterday, but an officer arrested the sanguinary Jacob, and now he lingers in jail.

MR. HUGH ADAMS, of the Typographical Union, was made happy last night by the addition of a member to his "Chapel." The aforesaid had no card but was duly initiated.

YESTERDAY a molder at Robinson, Rea & Co.'s works, in South Pittsburgh, named Conrad Fisher, had a finger of his right hand caught in a flask and so severely lacerated, that he has been compelled to quit work for the first time in twenty-one years.

WM. B. ROSS made an information yesterday before Alderman Stewart, of Allegheny, against Henry Lane, proprietor of a saloon in Pleasant Valley, for selling liquor on ten consecutive Sundays. The usual papers were made out.

THE inquest on the old man killed on the Connellsville Railroad on Thursday was concluded yesterday, and a verdict of accidental death rendered. Alderman Butler has preserved pieces of the clothing worn by deceased, in the possibility that the remains may be identified.

OFFICER ATKINSON, of Mayor Callow's police, had his coat torn to shreds yesterday afternoon, while attempting to arrest James Copeland, who was acting disorderly in the park. The officer, however, succeeded in landing his prisoner in the lock-up, notwithstanding the desperate resistance made by the prisoner.

JOHN WOODS, residing near Twenty-fifth and Penn streets, has been committed to jail by Alderman Moreland, to answer a charge of outraging the person of a little girl named Catherine Dawson, employed by him as a domestic. His wife also charges him with adultery. He will have a hearing on Saturday.

THE Sandusky Baptist church, Allegheny City, having been, for the last few weeks, undergoing thorough repairs, will be opened to-morrow. The house has been tastefully painted and the main audience room beautifully frescoed. Preaching by the pastor, Rev. B. F. Woodburn, at half-past ten o'clock in the morning and at half past seven in the evening.

A BOY named Willie Huber had a miraculous escape from death last night. He was crossing Carson street at the corner of Eighteenth street, Birmingham, when he was knocked down by the horses attached to a heavy wagon. He got under the horses feet, but strange to say he was rescued before he was injured of any account.

THE REV. J. D. HERR, pastor of the Third Methodist church, of this city, has accepted a call to the Union Baptist church, on Grant street. The Methodist (Protestant) Conference will meet in annual session at Beaver Falls, on the Fourth of September, when Mr. Herr will dissolve his connection with the denomination. He will take charge of the church after the adjournment of Conference.

A MAN named William Farley alleged before Mayor Callow, yesterday morning, that he and Fred. Bauers stopped at a tavern on Spring Garden avenue, each having a horse and buggy. Unfortunately, he discovered, when about to leave, that Bauers had traded horses without his (Farley's) knowledge, and hitched the animal to his (Bauers's) buggy. A warrant was issued.

SAMUEL PATTERSON and William Commer, accused of robbing J. W. Mitchell of forty dollars and a silver watch, after enticing him into a board yard in Allegheny, were committed yesterday to jail for trial by Mayor Callow, in default of two thousand dollars bail. Another information will probably be made against Commer by Mrs. Brinker, whose watch he captured while riding in a street car.

SAMUEL PAYNE, colored, and William Tivis were before Mayor Callow yesterday morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. They were in McMannis's tavern, on Ohio street, the previous evening, when Payne challenged any person in the saloon for a fight. Tivis accepted the challenge, when a regular fight ensued, but the police interfered and landed them in the lock-up. They were fined twenty-five dollars and costs.

JOSEPH MILLER, who keeps a tavern on Penn street, Twelfth ward, made an information before the Mayor yesterday, charging Joseph Hanlon with disorderly conduct. The prosecutor stated that Hanlon had been somewhat in the habit of getting drinks at his place without paying for them, and that on Thursday evening he came there somewhat under the influence and demanded a drink, offering to pay for it. He was refused on the ground that he already had enough. He became uproarious, and, as is alleged, threw a chair at Miller, fortunately missing him, however. Defendant was arrested and held for a hearing.

ANOTHER EXPLOSION.

Children Attempt to Kindle a Fire With Carbon Oil and Succeed—Two of Them Probably Fatally Injured.

Last evening an accident happened at the residence of Mrs. Salby, on Manor street, Birmingham, which may result fatally to two children. Mrs. Salby is employed in a pottery and during her absence had left her two little children at home in charge of a little girl named Lavelle. As the hour of six approached the children concluded they would light a fire in the stove, and in order to accelerate matters one of them procured a can of Carbon oil and was in the act of pouring the oil on some lighted chips, in the stove, when an explosion ensued, injuring the two Salby's, probably fatally and the girl, Lavelle, severely. The timely arrival of some neighbors prevented a conflagration. At a late hour last night the Salby children were in a very serious condition.

Republican Meetings To-Night.

There will be a Republican meeting held this evening at the corner of Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, at which Major Moreland, J. H. Kerr, Esq., and others will make addresses. A meeting will also be held in front of the office of Burgess Smithson, of Mt. Washington, which will be addressed by J. J. Vannote, Esq., and others, and a third will come off in Millvale borough, at which H. H. McCormick, Esq., will address those present. Let the meetings be well attended.

OWEN DORAN pretended to be dumb at the Mayor's early court yesterday, and refused to tell how he got drunk. The Mayor gave him thirty days in which to recover his speech.

A New Summer Resort.

With the thermometer at one hundred degrees in the shade, or thereabouts, the denizen of the city naturally feels a desire to enjoy, for a brief season, the fresh air and cool breezes of some sequestered spot remote from the busy haunts of men and yet it is frequently found inconvenient for business men to absent themselves entirely from their business, and while they sigh for "a lodge in some vast wilderness" they are compelled to endure the heat of the city and plod on in their accustomed way. We therefore hail with pleasure the announcement that a company has been formed and a charter obtained for the purpose of providing, in close proximity to the city, a place where our citizens may retire with their families for a season of recreation from the cares of business, and yet be within easy communication with the city.

The Hamilton Hall and Cottage Company of Pittsburgh, with a capital stock ample for the successful prosecution of the enterprise, propose to erect a commodious hotel building, first class in all its appointments, and fitted up with every modern convenience and attachment for insuring the comfort and pleasure of guests, and a number of small cottages for the accommodation of those desiring greater seclusion, in that beautiful district near the eastern limit of the city, and the termination of the Penn Avenue Improvement.

The grounds surrounding the hotel and cottages will be tastefully laid out with walks and drives, supplied with fountains and otherwise ornamented, serving to render the place a most inviting one. While the locality selected is admirably adapted for the purposes of the company in every essential feature of a pleasant summer resort, its accessibility should not be overlooked.

It may be reached by Penn avenue, which affords one of the most delightful drives in the country, or by the numerous accommodation trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad. That this enterprise will prove a great success there can scarcely be a doubt, and we hope to see the plans of the company speedily executed. That it will receive the proper encouragement and aid we feel assured, from the very necessity that exists for such a resort as is proposed. The plans of the hotel and cottages may be seen at the office of the company, No. 77 Fourth avenue, where additional information can be obtained and subscriptions to the capital stock are being received.

The Boston Range, Fiery Furnace, etc.

The firm of Graff, Hugus & Co., stove manufacturers and dealers, Nos. 206 and 208 Liberty street, is too well known to our readers to need any recommendation at our hands. We, however, desire to call attention to one or two of the specialties of particular merit manufactured by them. Their Boston double oven cooking range is a vast improvement on ranges heretofore in use, being complete in all its parts, and commending itself to housekeepers on the grounds of superiority and cheapness. This range is claimed to be the best and cheapest of any yet introduced in this country, and saves the first cost in fuel in one year, compared with other ranges. In this range the ovens are elevated over the fire, rendering its operations quick and perfect. The fact that three thousand of these Boston ranges are in satisfactory use in the United States sufficiently attests their merits and shows how justly they are appreciated.

The "Fiery Furnace," manufactured exclusively by the firm designated, has rapidly come into favor since its introduction. Messrs. Graff, Hugus & Co. are in possession of several hundred testimonials, expressive of the thorough satisfaction it has given the writers. The "Fiery Furnace" is differently constructed from the old style furnaces, and works upon the principle of slow combustion. Some of its most obvious advantages are freedom from dust and dirt, economy of fuel, safety, simplicity and health. It is the only furnace made that will burn soft, bituminous coal perfectly, which renders it a great desideratum in this section and throughout the West. It is decidedly the best furnace for heating dwellings, stores, churches and public buildings extant, and all who contemplate the purchase of a range should make themselves conversant with its operations before deciding upon any other.

Messrs. Graff, Hugus & Co. also manufacture cooking and heating stoves and grate fronts, and are possessed of unsurpassed facilities for meeting the wants of every class of buyers. We can cheerfully recommend the firm, and assure our readers that a visit to their establishment will repay those wanting ranges, furnaces or stoves.

Latest Styles in Clothing.

Gentlemen who would keep pace with the fashions, wear neatly fitting, well made and durable garments, and at the same time economize, are respectfully commended to Mr. E. A. Rossitter, Superintendent of the Boston One Price Clothing House, No. 95 Smithfield street. The goods at this house equal, in style, make, durability, and every other desirable feature, the products of the best merchant tailoring establishment, and yet the buyer saves twenty-five per cent, on prices prevailing elsewhere for inferior garments. To see is to be convinced; and we therefore advise those of our readers whose wardrobes need replenishing to give Mr. Rossitter a call at their earliest convenience. Those who have heretofore been paying the exorbitant prices for clothing prevailing in this city will be equally surprised and gratified to find that there is at least one house at which a good well made suit of clothes can be procured for a reasonable sum. Mr. Rossitter and his assistants are among the most pleasant and affable salesmen in the and city to whom "it is no trouble to show goods."

Great Stock of Furniture.

Huntsman & Co., Nos. 41 and 43 west Ohio street, Allegheny City, is exposed for sale, one of the largest, most complete and varied assortments of furniture ever seen in this vicinity. It comprises every description, from the most ornate and costly parlor sets to the common one kitchen table and chairs. This firm are also prepared to finish and upholster setts as desired. Their prices are lower than the majority of their competitors have established, and are as reasonable as could be asked. Call and examine the stock and note the prices.

The Tree is Judged by its Fruit.

This adage is applicable to many of our business firms who are located among us, and among others the firm of Cunningham & Bradley are acknowledged. Their Counter Ballance Sash Adjuster and Sock has been working its way gradually to eminence with the most skeptical. To our knowledge the adjuster has been in operation several months in a friend's residence, and it has always proved itself fully up to the standard for which it is claimed. Constant strain upon the cords and pullies will not allow the top sash to drop from its natural position unless desired. Leave your orders at 73 Grant street.
